

Olympus '86

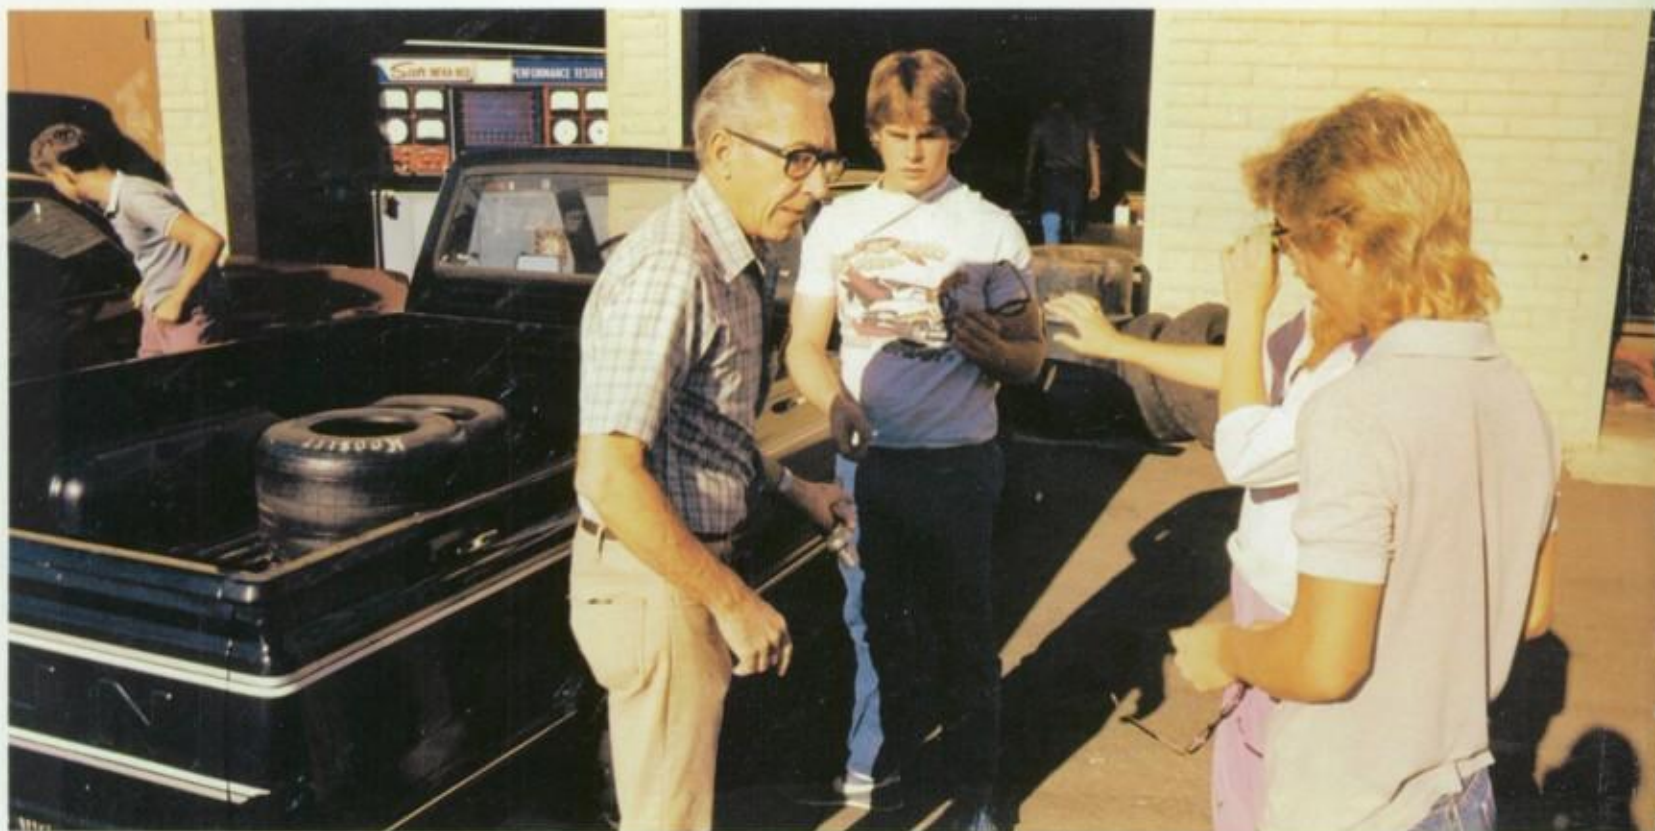

Treasured memories in a chest,
Where all your dreams come true.
We put Apollo above the rest,
And made a friend or two.
We gave the people a chance to grow,
Built a warm and cozy fire,
And it built an inner glow.
With our hearts last desire,
We worked so hard to make this year
The best that it could be.
And now we all cry a tear,
For each and every memory.
A hawk soars high in the memories we hold.
There is a blue sky, the sunset shining gold.
To make our treasure chest shine
We filled it with love and affection.
We gave each other time
To head in the right direction.
No one will be left behind.
We'll venture over many seas.
We shall look and we shall find,
A chest of treasured memories!

Bartee Chosen as Dedicatee

Dedicatee of the 1985-86 Olympus is Earl Bartee, automotives teacher, who spends many non-school hours helping students with auto repairs, answering questions and just visiting.

"The Apollo staff looks to Earl as an 'old timer', one who knows the 'ins' and 'outs' of getting things done in this district," says his colleague Bob Shupp who notes that Bartee's job includes not only teaching but skills in mechanics, shopformanship, custodial services, bookkeeping and equipment design.

He has taught automotives for 28 years, 15 of those at Apollo, beginning in 1971 after teaching shop at both Sunnyslope and Cortez High Schools. Apollo presented him with a challenge- the chance to set up a new shop. Indeed, he is one of the few teachers who has seen Apollo grow and prosper through the years.

Bartee and his wife, Betty, have three children, David, age 29; Nancy, age 26; and Brian, 19. Nancy, following her father's example, entered the teaching profession. She is currently teaching fifth grade at Pendergast Elementary School.

Our thanks go out to this fine man who has continually fostered academic and social pride in his students and colleagues. We owe you much, Mr. Bartee.

Memories Everywhere

As another school year comes to a close, we look back and remember those experiences which we all hold so dear, incidents which prove that high school is one of the best times, if not the best time, of our lives. We relive the memories of dressing up for Spirit Week, going out to lunch with friends and cheering our teams to victory. Who will ever forget the feeling of being a confused freshman lost in a sea of students the first day of school? Who can forget the football games and dances or the sensation of receiving a diploma? With the good times come the bad and the memories of how we continued to soar as hawks overcoming the obstacles that we thought would defeat us. As we grow in mind, spirit and body the list of treasured memories grows too. No one can take away the memories which the administration and teachers have given us. We will always remember Apollo, the blue and gold.

ACTIVITIES

The Opening of School

One of the most dreaded times of the school year is summer registrations.

The first step is to have your picture taken. No one seems to care that you've been standing two hours in the sun and you're all sweaty.

The ladies at the Booster Club table never hassle you. Even getting your check approved is not so bad -- as long as you remembered your parents' bank card. But then --

Next to the library to pick up your schedule. As usual, your classes are wrong, your teachers are wrong, and you didn't get any classes with your friends. Want a schedule change? Forget it!

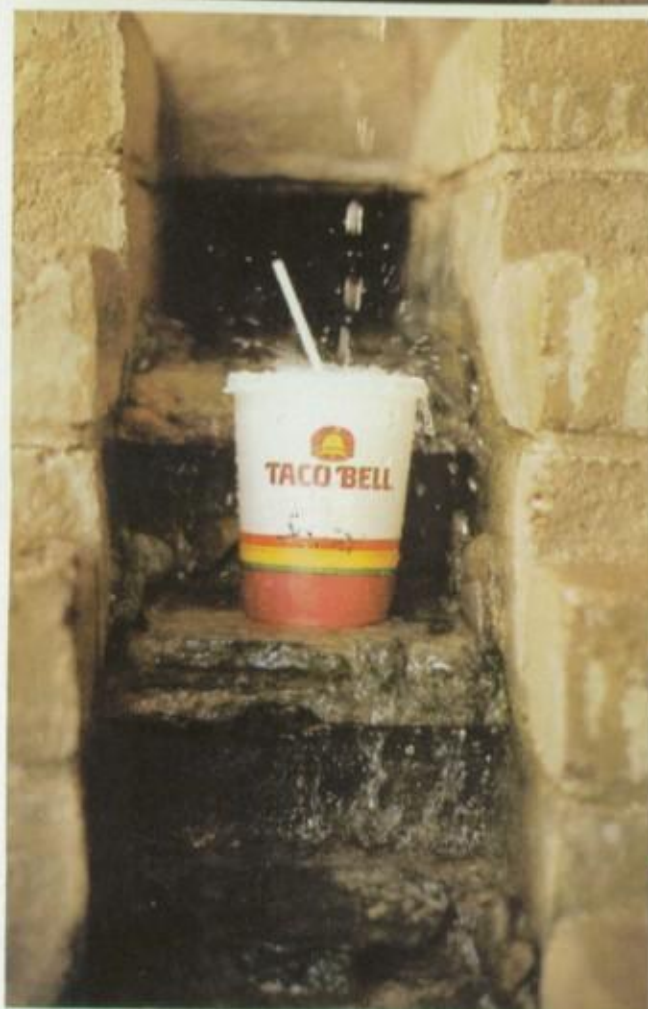

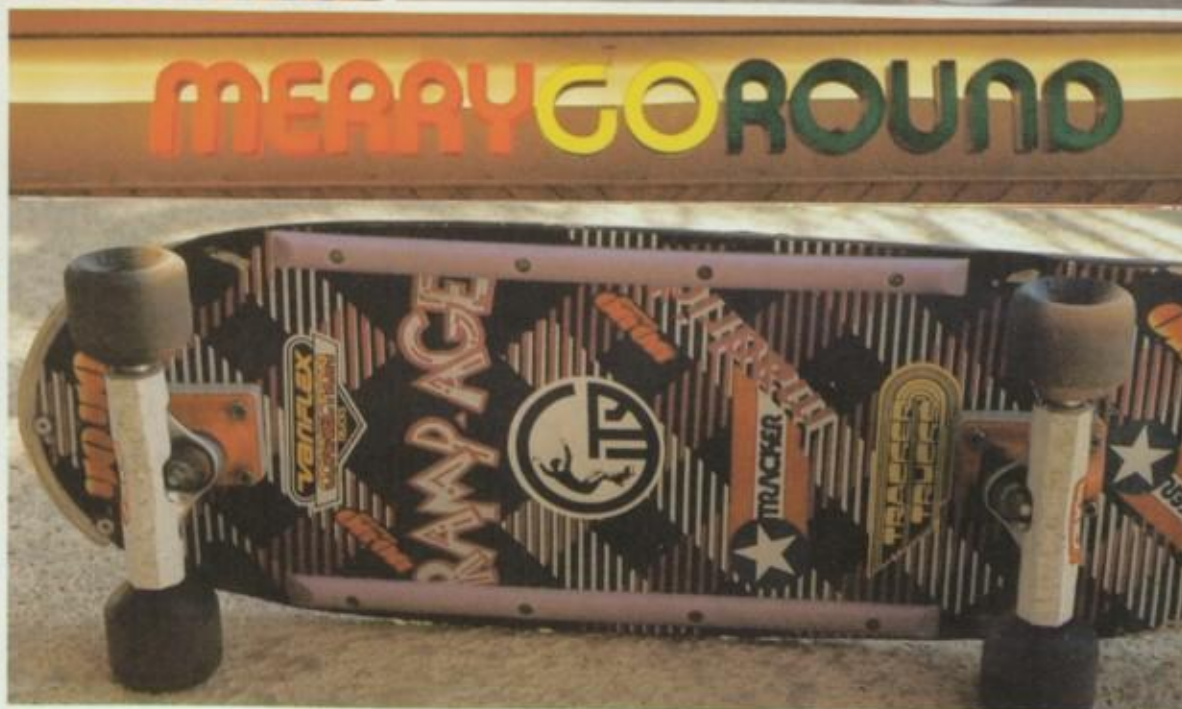

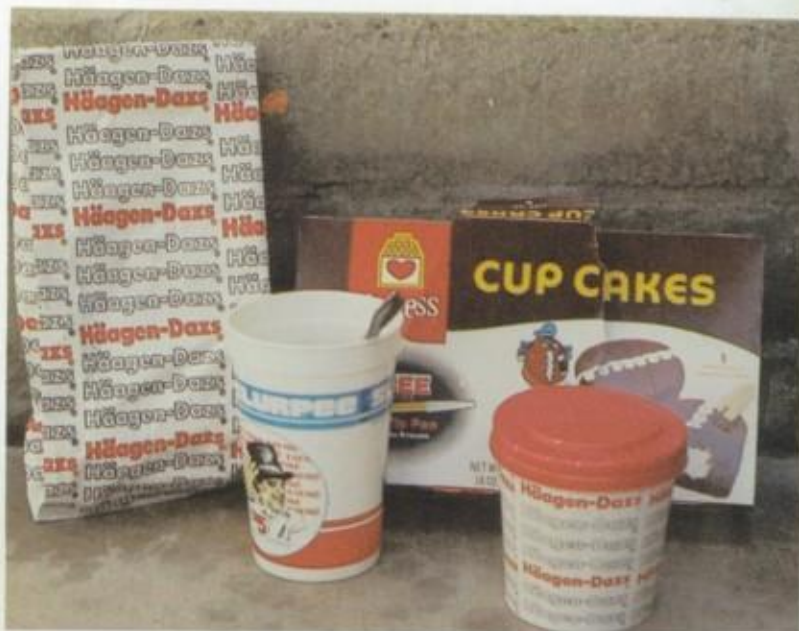

Now it is time to pay for your books. Don't worry. The total is only $4,386, and it's no mistake. Finally it's time to put your books in your locker. "Oh, no! My locker's stuck." This happens when the lockers are painted during the summer. Some day someone is going to realize that the sun melts fresh paint. This problem is easily solved; just report to the bookstore (that line again?). How about crow bars? Not allowed. Oh, well, it will be just as easy to bring all your books back the first day of school.

1985-86 is a year where signs really mean a lot. For instance, Burger King and Guess Jeans are really popular. ATC's and Swatches are signs of style and fun. Bongo is a brand name everyone remembers, while engines and radios keep the cars of the time moving. Merry Go Round and Judy's are well known places to shop. Skate boards are also an important sign, although they've been around awhile. Lifting weights and keeping in shape is a very important aspect of 1986. Whether it be a store sign or a Taco Bell cup, these are the signs of the time.

Signs Of the Times

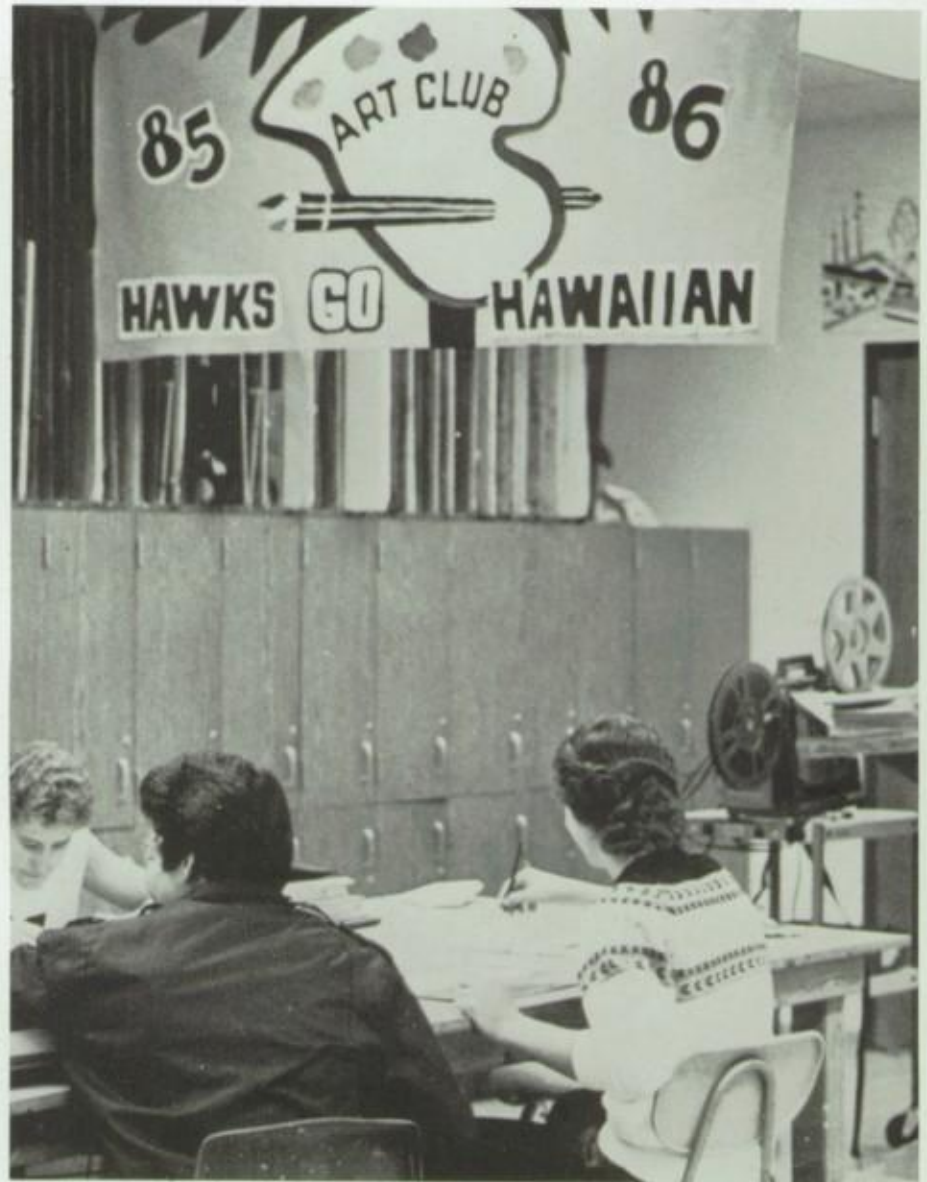

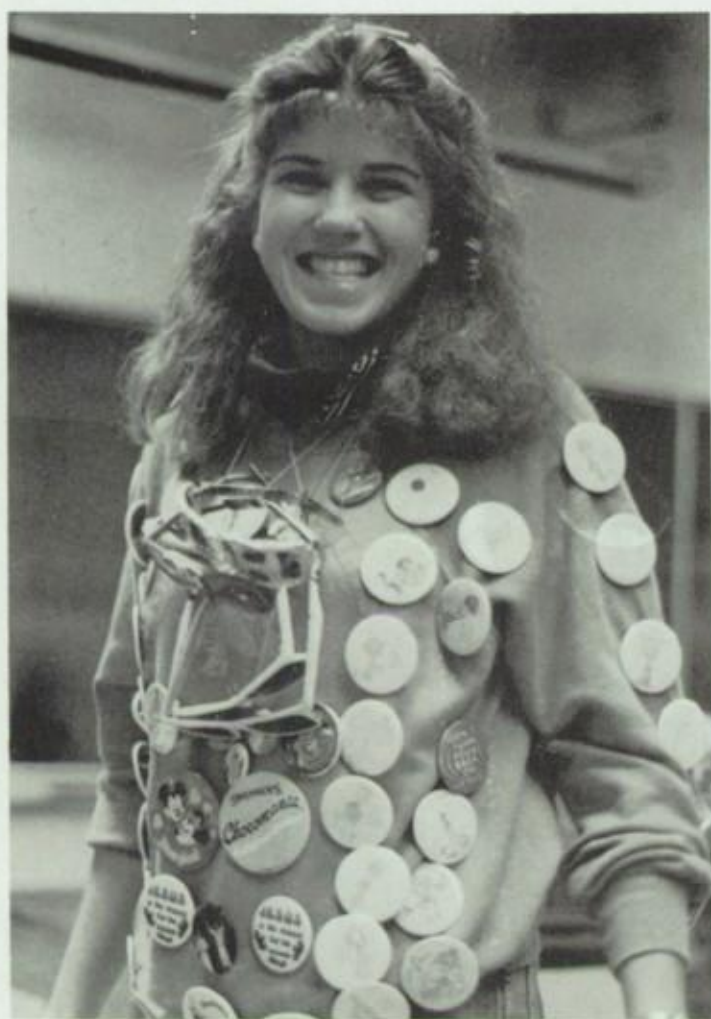

Spirit Week a Super Luau

Better than ever are apt words with which to describe the 1985 Spirit Week which preceded Homecoming. In keeping with the theme, Spiritline Members donned sunglasses and flowered shorts, and the band went Hawaiian, too. Spirit week was filled with a lot of fun and pride in Apollo.

Traditional activities included Button and Hat Day, the Dunking Contest in which many members of Student Council took a not-too-warm but short bath, the making of many banners for the parade, the Egg Toss, and the Mr. Irresistible Contest won by the guy who collected the most leis from girls, the pep assembly, the voting for King and Queen, and, of course, the attempts to talk teachers out of doing any work in class. The last, naturally, was in vain, and students proceeded with their studies amid their merry-making.

Balloons again turned out to be one of the favorite spirit items displayed by Apollo students who carried them everywhere they went on campus. The week led to the two-day Homecoming festivities on October 18 and 19.

Homecoming.... Better than Ever

On October 17 and 18 Apollo celebrated its Homecoming by "Going Hawaiian." The Apollo football team scored a 3-0 victory over Moon Valley in an exciting defensive struggle. The football cheerleaders dressed in a Hawaiian style. The half time show was enhanced by a performance from the Apollo Marching Band. Many students wore leis and colorful Hawaiian shirts. Many clubs participated by contributing banners for the halftime parade. During the halftime performance the King and Queen and attendants were acknowledged. The dance following on Saturday, the first Homecoming was held on a Saturday.

John Barber and Ginger Griggs were crowned Turkey King and Queen and helped raise money to support the literary magazine.

Pep Assemblies were a big part of this year, especially since three Hawk teams (football, cross country and volleyball) made it to the state playoffs. The assemblies supported the volleyball team in its capture of the first place honor and the football and boys' cross country teams in their bringing home of second place trophies. Melissa Trueblood (left) gets Jim Drape ready for the Homecoming game against Moon Valley. Deena Bunch and Kim Bowman (below) know which team is #1. Computer teacher John Barber and Mike Gjere (lower left) sure are a "Motley Crue"! And, is it Dan or Danielle Kirton (lower right) who showed up for class on Halloween?

Wendy Ford (upper right) gets in the Christmas spirit by helping out at the holiday bazaar while Debbie Smolinski (middle right) is interviewed in front of a slightly rowdy Apollo crowd by a DJ hired for the bazaar. Julie Trzeciak (lower right) smiles for a picture with Santa Claus (Jack Fiala, government teacher) at one of the many booths at this year's bazaar. Santa (sophomore Brian Dostie) gets a little kiss from sophomore Sam McIntyre (below), and Michelle Putman (lower left) snuggles with a Christmas present during her English class.

Include Blood Drive

The Arizona Blood Services conducted this year's fall blood drive on November 26, 1985. Apollo donated approximately 68 pints of blood. Commander Terry Tassin's third hour ROTC class and Diane Gourley's concert choir class gave the most blood and were awarded a pizza party. Students had to meet some requirements to donate blood which included being at least 17 years of age, weight of at least 110, and they were tested for anemia. Thanks goes out to all the Apollo students and teachers who participated.

Of Super Importance.....

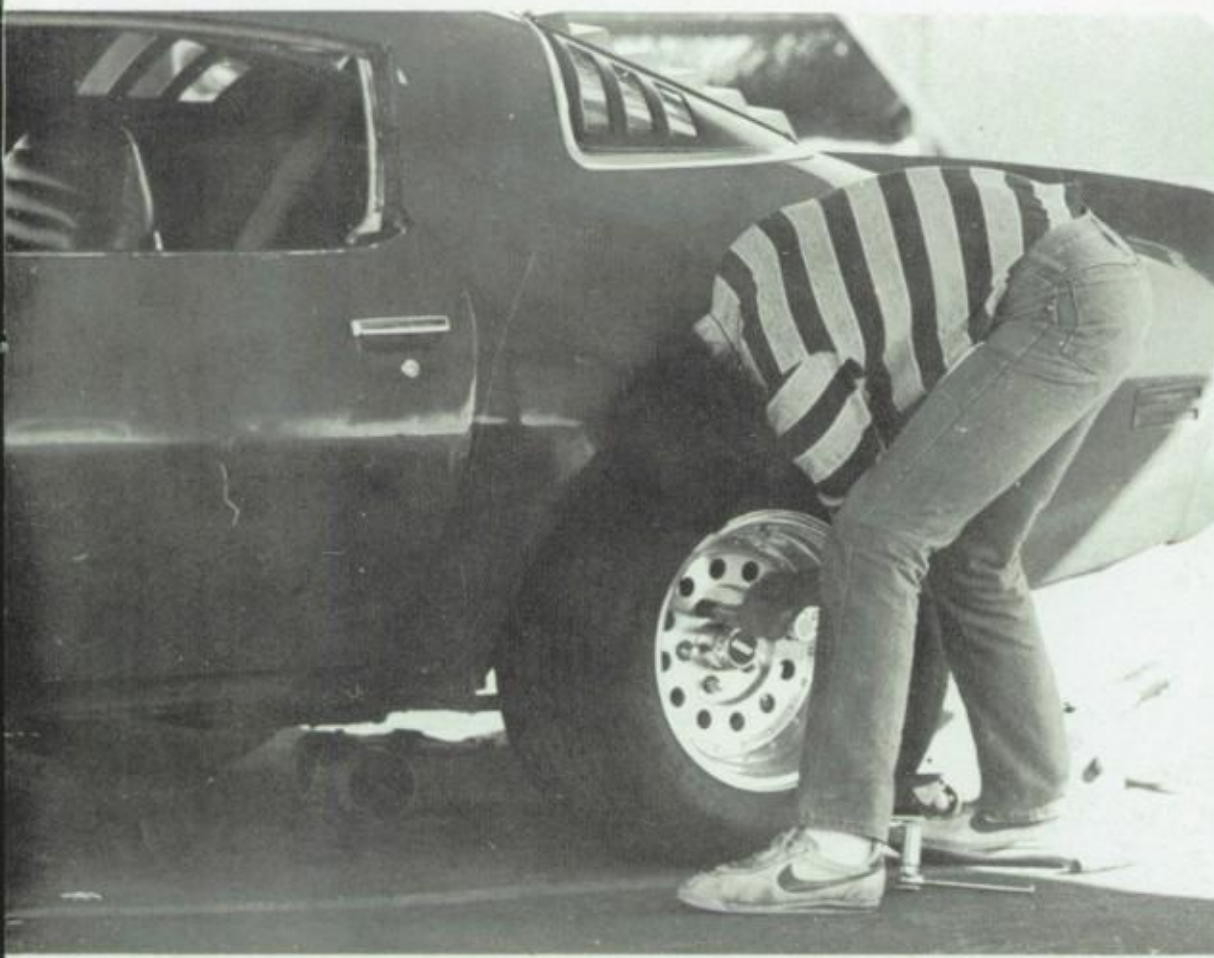

Bugs, trucks, Camaros, etc. fill our parking lot every day. Each one has its owner's personality in it whether it has a Fly-N-Hi bumper sticker or dice hanging from the rearview mirror. Everyone becomes identified by his car. For example, have you ever had a conversation with a friend who says, "Have you seen that guy who drives the red Trans-Am? He's so gorgeous!" People refer to you by the car you drive. Cars are one of the most important items teen-agers will own in their life. They are remembered and cherished forever, or at least until a new car comes along!

Top right: Shawna Sowell and Slade Sweet have a little run in out in the parking lot. Middle left: Every size, shape and style show up in the "zoo" every morning. Jobs Become A Necessity

With the increasing costs in today's world, having a job has become almost as important to high school students as graduating. The student working hard in classes with the aim of going to college has learned that all too often his parents will not be able to afford the cost of that post-secondary education. Good grades are important to the college prep student but so is the job that will help pay that student's way to school. The same is true for those students whose academic goals will lead them to technical training centers after the senior year in high school. It has also become the rule rather than the exception that both parents in a two-parent home work out of necessity. Teenagers from these homes find that they, too, must find a job to help support their purchases of tapes, stereos, cosmetics, movies, etc. Tapes run from $8 to $13 and movies from $2.50 to $4.50 just to walk in the door. Coupled with this need for more money is a need for transportation to get to that job and to those activities. With the car comes costs in the forms of insurance, gas, tires, etc. It seems that students run in a vicious circle trying to balance time and money for work, school and play. Some students gain high school credit in addition to money by participating in one of Apollo's work-and-learn programs, DECA, VICA, HERO and COE. There are also those who want to put in "work" time at school without financial compensation. These students, known as T.A.'s, help in the bookstore and in the library and also help individual teachers with numerous chores such as stapling papers, running errands and grading objective assignments and tests. Tina Tipton (upper left) takes a break from her chores of selling pop corn, candy and soda pop at Valley West Cinemas Senior Mike Levin (below) grades a set of papers while a stack of papers to be stapled waits nearby for his services, and Wendy Ford gets ready to write up a charge slip at Montgomery Wards where she works.

Friends ...

Forever

Cheryl Johnson and Aaron McGill (upper right) share serious talks during the school day. Michael Varljen, Candy Roeber and Tim Penner (lower right) smile for an Olympus camera during pre-calculus. Catch the spirit of friends (at left) as Mike Mason, David Moreno, Patti Medlock (in front), Theresa Cullin and Vu Nguyen do during school one day.

Together With Friends

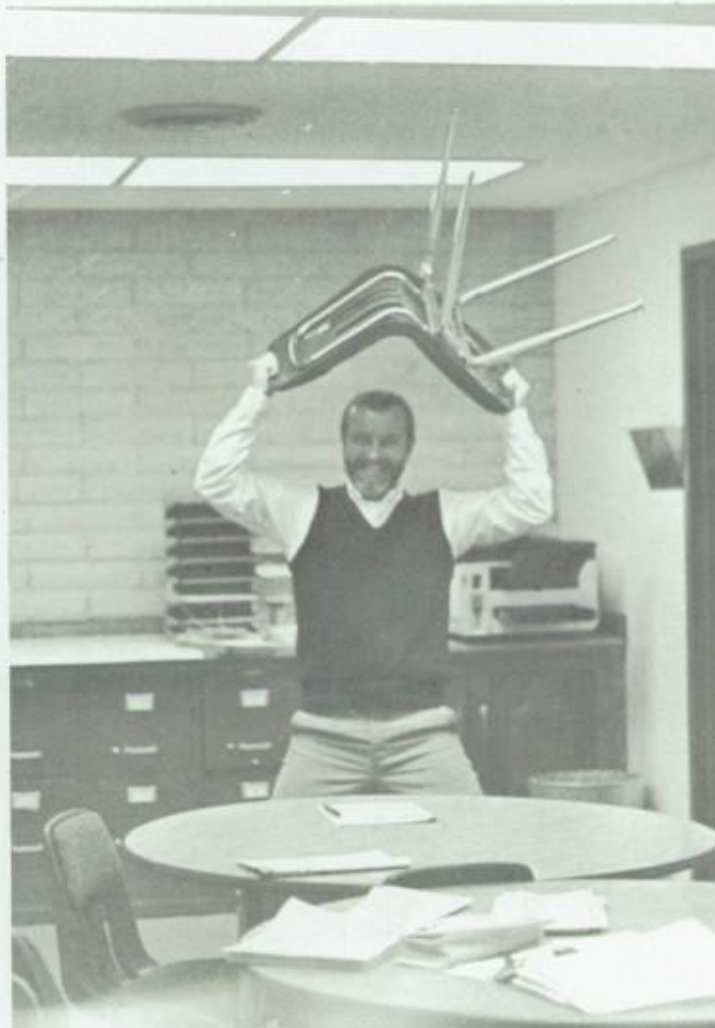

By Laura Pennington and Melissa Gebler

*Laugh a little, laugh a lot!
Friends are all you've ever got.
Take time to smile throughout the day.
Real friends will never go away.
Friendships bound in a book of trust,
The chain that binds will never rust.
A loving heart will always bleed,
As long as there is a friend in need.
Long walks together in the rain
Talks of love, heartache and pain.
A friend is there through thick and thin.
It doesn't matter if you lose or win.
Just remember whose your friend,
And never let that friendship end!*

Science and Mathematics Challenge the Mind

All Apollo students are required to take two lab sciences, which usually include Introduction to Science and Biology 1-2, and two mathematics classes in order to graduate. The goals of the upper division courses are to help students prepare for college studies, but all courses are designed to help students achieve a basic foundation of mathematical and scientific concepts and theories for career opportunities.

Industrial Arts Offers Many Practical Skills

A few of the more popular classes at Apollo are offered by the Industrial Arts Department. Upholstery, woods, autos, metals, drafting, and ICE teach students vocational skills which may be useful after graduation. Even if a student does not choose his skills for a career, he still learns the principles of machines and work ethics. ICE allows seniors the chance to earn both credit and money for working on the job while attending school. Pictured here Danny Kirton and Derek Williams (top left) work on their woods' project whiles Randy White and his teacher, Earl Bartee, (below) discuss the best method to repair a transmission. Brian Rawson and Mark Garrison (lower right) take a casual break from their upholstery work while Bartee (lower left) shows Jim Wilhelm, Andy Lengvary and White the basics of engine repair.

English Teaches New Concepts

The English Department teaches students the basics of literature, writing and grammar. Students are required to pass four years of English before graduating. During these four years, students cover essay writing, research papers and such exciting epics as "Beowulf." Drama, speech and journalism are the electives offered. The department is responsible for several dramatic productions and the publication of the Utopian newspaper, Signatures literary magazine and Olympus yearbook. Estevan Carreon (upper left) receives directions from his English teacher Avis Lacey-Halbach while other students (lower left) polish their reading skills, and Clint Golash (below) relies on his own skills to finish his assignment.

ROTC Cadets Give Command Performance

Led by Commander Terry Tassin, the ROTC students learn self discipline, develop leadership skills, round out character, and develop the ability to lead and motivate others. Students experience the advantages of field trips to San Diego naval bases and ships, marching in parades and other civil functions, as well as going on hay rides and other social events. A Scholastic Aptitude Test program is available for high quality students who are interested in improving their SAT scores.

HERO.... First Year - Big Success

The HERO (Home Economics Related Occupations) program is brand new at Apollo this year. With Llana Sullivan in charge and Sherri Rudge as the club president, HERO had a great first year. Three students worked at the Sunburst Day Care Center, one at Taco Bell and one at a shoe store. One HERO student, Beverly Bend, has even made it as far as manager at the McDonalds where she works. Apollo is very proud of its HERO students and their accomplishments. Members of the group are (back row, l-r)

Music Stirs Hawks' Spirits

Music plays a big part in our Hawks' spirit. The music department is made up of marching band, jazz ensemble, guitar and choir. All are elective courses. Jazz, guitar and choir give many performances throughout the year. Marching band performs during halftime festivities at football games. The band also captured superior rating in the state band competition held at Northern Arizona University. Some members of the marching band make up a smaller pep band which performs at basketball games.

Tara Schmidt (right) vocalizes her feelings while Danny Bidwell (far right) sharpens his piano skills. The marching band (below) performs at the NAU festival in which it earned a superior rating.

The Arts Offer Expressionism, Discipline

Self expression along disciplined guidelines is one of the basic experiences to be gained by students enrolling in art, photography or crafts. Although considered electives in Apollo's academic program, the courses offered in these areas meet the performing arts' graduation requirement. They help offer students a well-rounded education which will be useful to those who seek creative endeavors in their leisure time as well as those who plan a career in one of the many modern fields requiring a high degree of capabilities in dealing with minute details. Photo instructor Don Holgate helps Debbie Jellesma (below) with a project for her photography class while art teacher Loren Neal (right) looks up to answer a question from one of the students in his class (bottom).

Students Learn About Their World

Apollo students are required to take three years of social studies before graduating. During their sophomore year, students study world history. As juniors and seniors, they take U.S. history and government. Good citizenship and the understanding of various democratic processes are stressed in these classes. Dave Ruffulo, Scott Williams, Ron Speakman and Renee Campton (below, left to right) use some time to complete their homework. Marco Aguirre and Kim Nelson (upper right) quickly review their notes before taking a test, and Laura Walker and Jeff Smith (right) work on their geography maps in Bob Grassi's class. Jan Proulx's students (lower right) listen carefully and take notes on her lecture for the semester exam.

Library and AV Aid Students

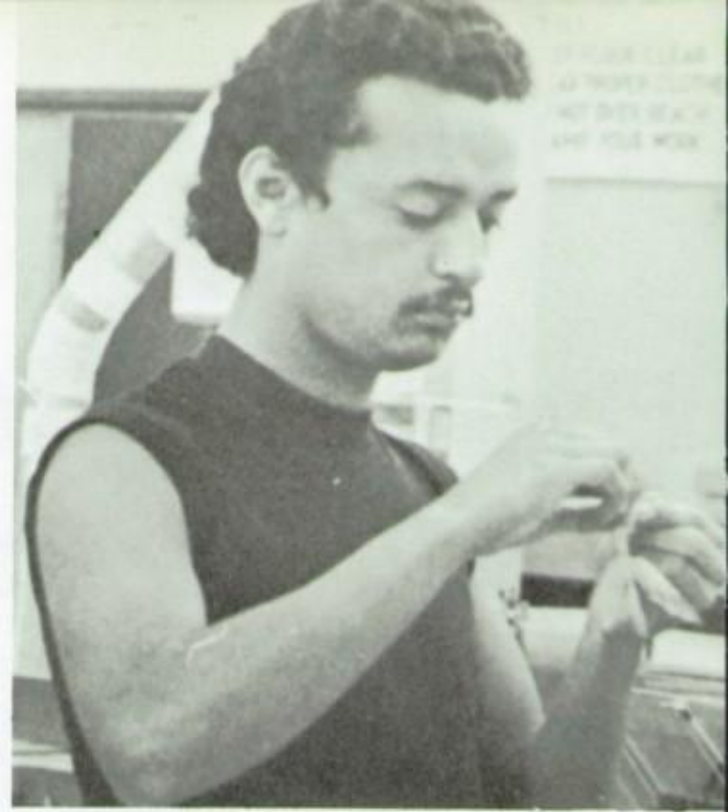

The library has been a multipurpose facility for us. It has hosted us for tests and registration. The library and audiovisual center has been a daily classroom in which we've learned basic library science and equipment maintenance. The AV department manages the marquee on 47th avenue and also the marquee (yellow) on the inner quad attached to the administration building. The department charges $1.00 for student messages on the letter marquee. The dollar is to defer expenses of the letters and poles. The AV department manages all display cases in buildings 1, 2, 5, 8, and 9. Student ideas for displays are welcome. Jim McCagno (below) works in the AV department. Denise Schwinden (lower left) writes notes. Kim Bowman and Corina Sipes (right) live it up in the library. Ida Sanchez (lower left) checks in books.

Special Education Prepares Students For Real Life Roles

Apollo also offers Special Education courses in its curriculum. In this program students learn to become self-sufficient individuals. They must also pass the same classes that non-Special Education students must pass in order to graduate.

This past December, 19 students participating in the program attended the state finals in Special Olympics bowling and soccer. The students earned the money for the trip by making Christmas ornaments which were distributed among various Smitty's markets.

Calculators were also introduced into the program this year. Students collected aluminum cans in order to purchase more calculators which they were able to use in class, and in some cases, keep for their private use.

The program stresses the learning of skills which the students will use to make their own way in the adult world.

Business Classes Educate Students For Careers

Many business classes are offered by the Business Department. These include typing, data processing, COE, DECA, general business, and business law. These classes guide students for a future career. This department offers a good, sound, well-rounded course of study.

Physical Education Is For Everyone

The goal of the physical education department is to offer a program of activities to meet the physical, social, and emotional needs of high school students. All students are required to pass Physical Education 1-2 in order to graduate. The electives include Physical Education 3-4, systematic conditioning and modern dance. The department emphasizes the importance of lifetime sports as an on-going program in everyone's life.

Detention: Not That Bad?

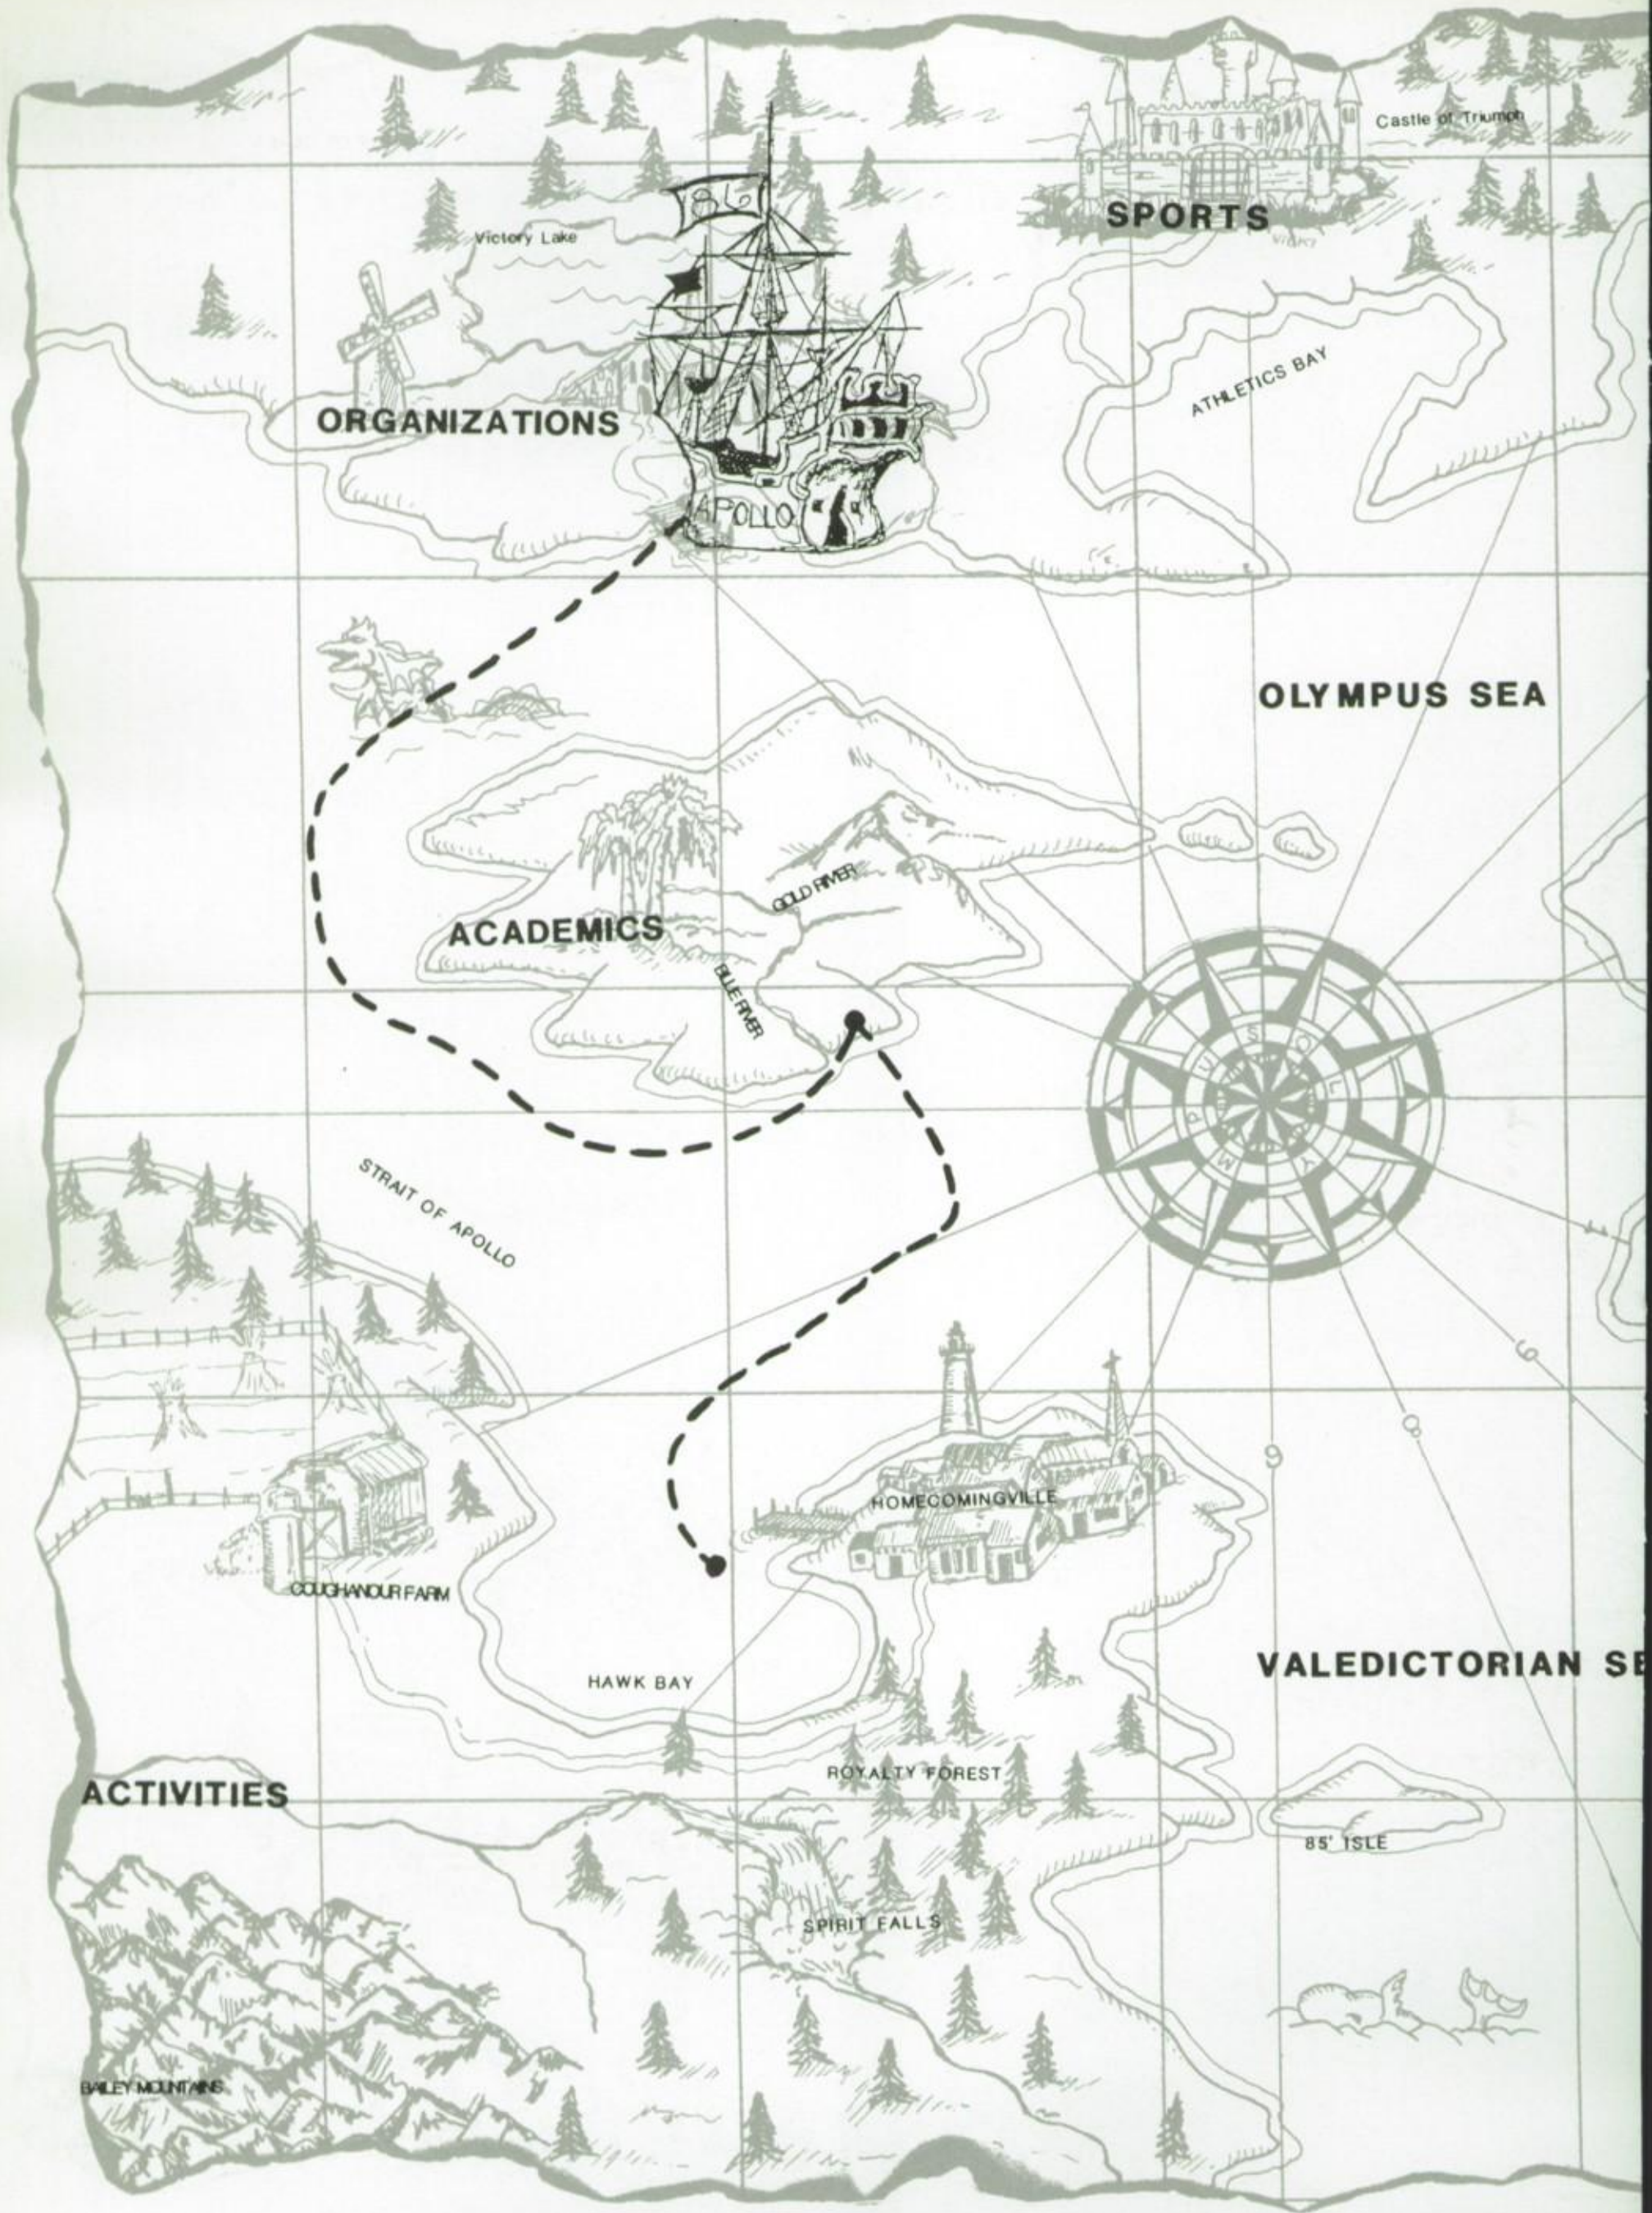

When you go into detention, you have to be really quiet or Mr. Miranda will kick you out. If he does, the next day you will have to go down and visit the dean. You can sit by your friends, but you are supposed to have something to keep you busy and out of trouble. It isn't that bad because sometimes, most of the time, Mr. Miranda will let you out early."

Clubs at Apollo:

Always Active,

Always Fun

The clubs of Apollo are known as being active, productive and most of all fun. Looking back to previous years we remember all of the club activities which we participated, both directly and indirectly, and remember how we helped shape the spirit of Apollo. On the opposite page, the band (top left) goes for the gold during the 1983 Homecoming half-time entertainment. The 1983 Homecoming festivities were dedicated to Gabe Angalich a previous band instructor at Apollo. Sean Dunnavant (middle left) realizes during an ROTC swim party that his worst fear is about to suddenly come true: The dreaded belly-flop is upon him. Karen Nelson (right) gives a demonstration speech while members of the flag line (bottom) stand at attention while waiting for the band to strike up a tune. Ed Ford (at right, on left) and Corey Niner help Anja Christy rise to new heights during last year's spring play "L'il Abner." Lori Briggs, Claudine O'Dell and Debbi Warnick (bottom, l-r) discuss the possibility of yet another spirit week.

On Monday, December 16, Apollo clubs joined together at the Christmas Bazaar to raise money. All clubs were invited to participate, and most took advantage by entering a booth selling food, desserts, or other goods and services. Activities ranged from a slave sale on the amphitheater to getting your fortune told by the Literary Club on the stage. Hamburgers were sold by the student body government while baked goods were sold by the Utopian. Other clubs sold hot chocolate, pizza, brownies, and more. Booths were set up inside the cafeteria, and also outside, where a D.J. raised spirits with music. The Christmas Bazaar has become a tradition at Apollo both for the clubs and for the student body, and the event was a success once again.

Students Support Clubs Through Fund Raisers

Probably the most well known activity of any club is the fund raiser. Students raise money for their various clubs in many ways and are continually finding new and different ideas to raise the money needed to support their club. Heidi Ridinger (right) shows that selling candy is an excellent way to make money as she sells a pack of Skittles to Christy Rogers. Christy Morba talks Michelle Decker and Lisa Schwoegler (below, l-r) into buying a candy bar. Bagles are a favorite snack among Apollo students and Debbie Warnick (lower right) asks a hungry student whether he wants one or two.

Clubs Take Form in Classes

A few clubs at Apollo are actual classes. These clubs range from ROTC to DECA, COE, HERO, journalism and yearbook. In these special clubs students may learn the fundamentals of marketing and merchandising, develop leadership skills, and receive some insight as to what they should choose for a career. But most of all, students gain credit points while having a lot of fun.

Band Earns Superior Rating

Apollo's Marching Band had a tremendous year and managed to grab a superior rating at Northern Arizona University's high school band competition in the fall as well as serve Apollo High and the community of Glendale in numerous ways. Rene Molina, Lilia Herr, Paul Whitmer and Monica Beville (below, left to right) take their places to awe spectators with an interesting formation such as this one displayed at NAU (bottom). On Page 87 Heather Somerfield, Carrie Williams and Crista Whitmer (upper left, left to right) join Christy Stutzman (upper right) in a performance. The band played in many parades such as this one (bottom) for celebrations in Glendale. The band was directed by Marty Krusniak.

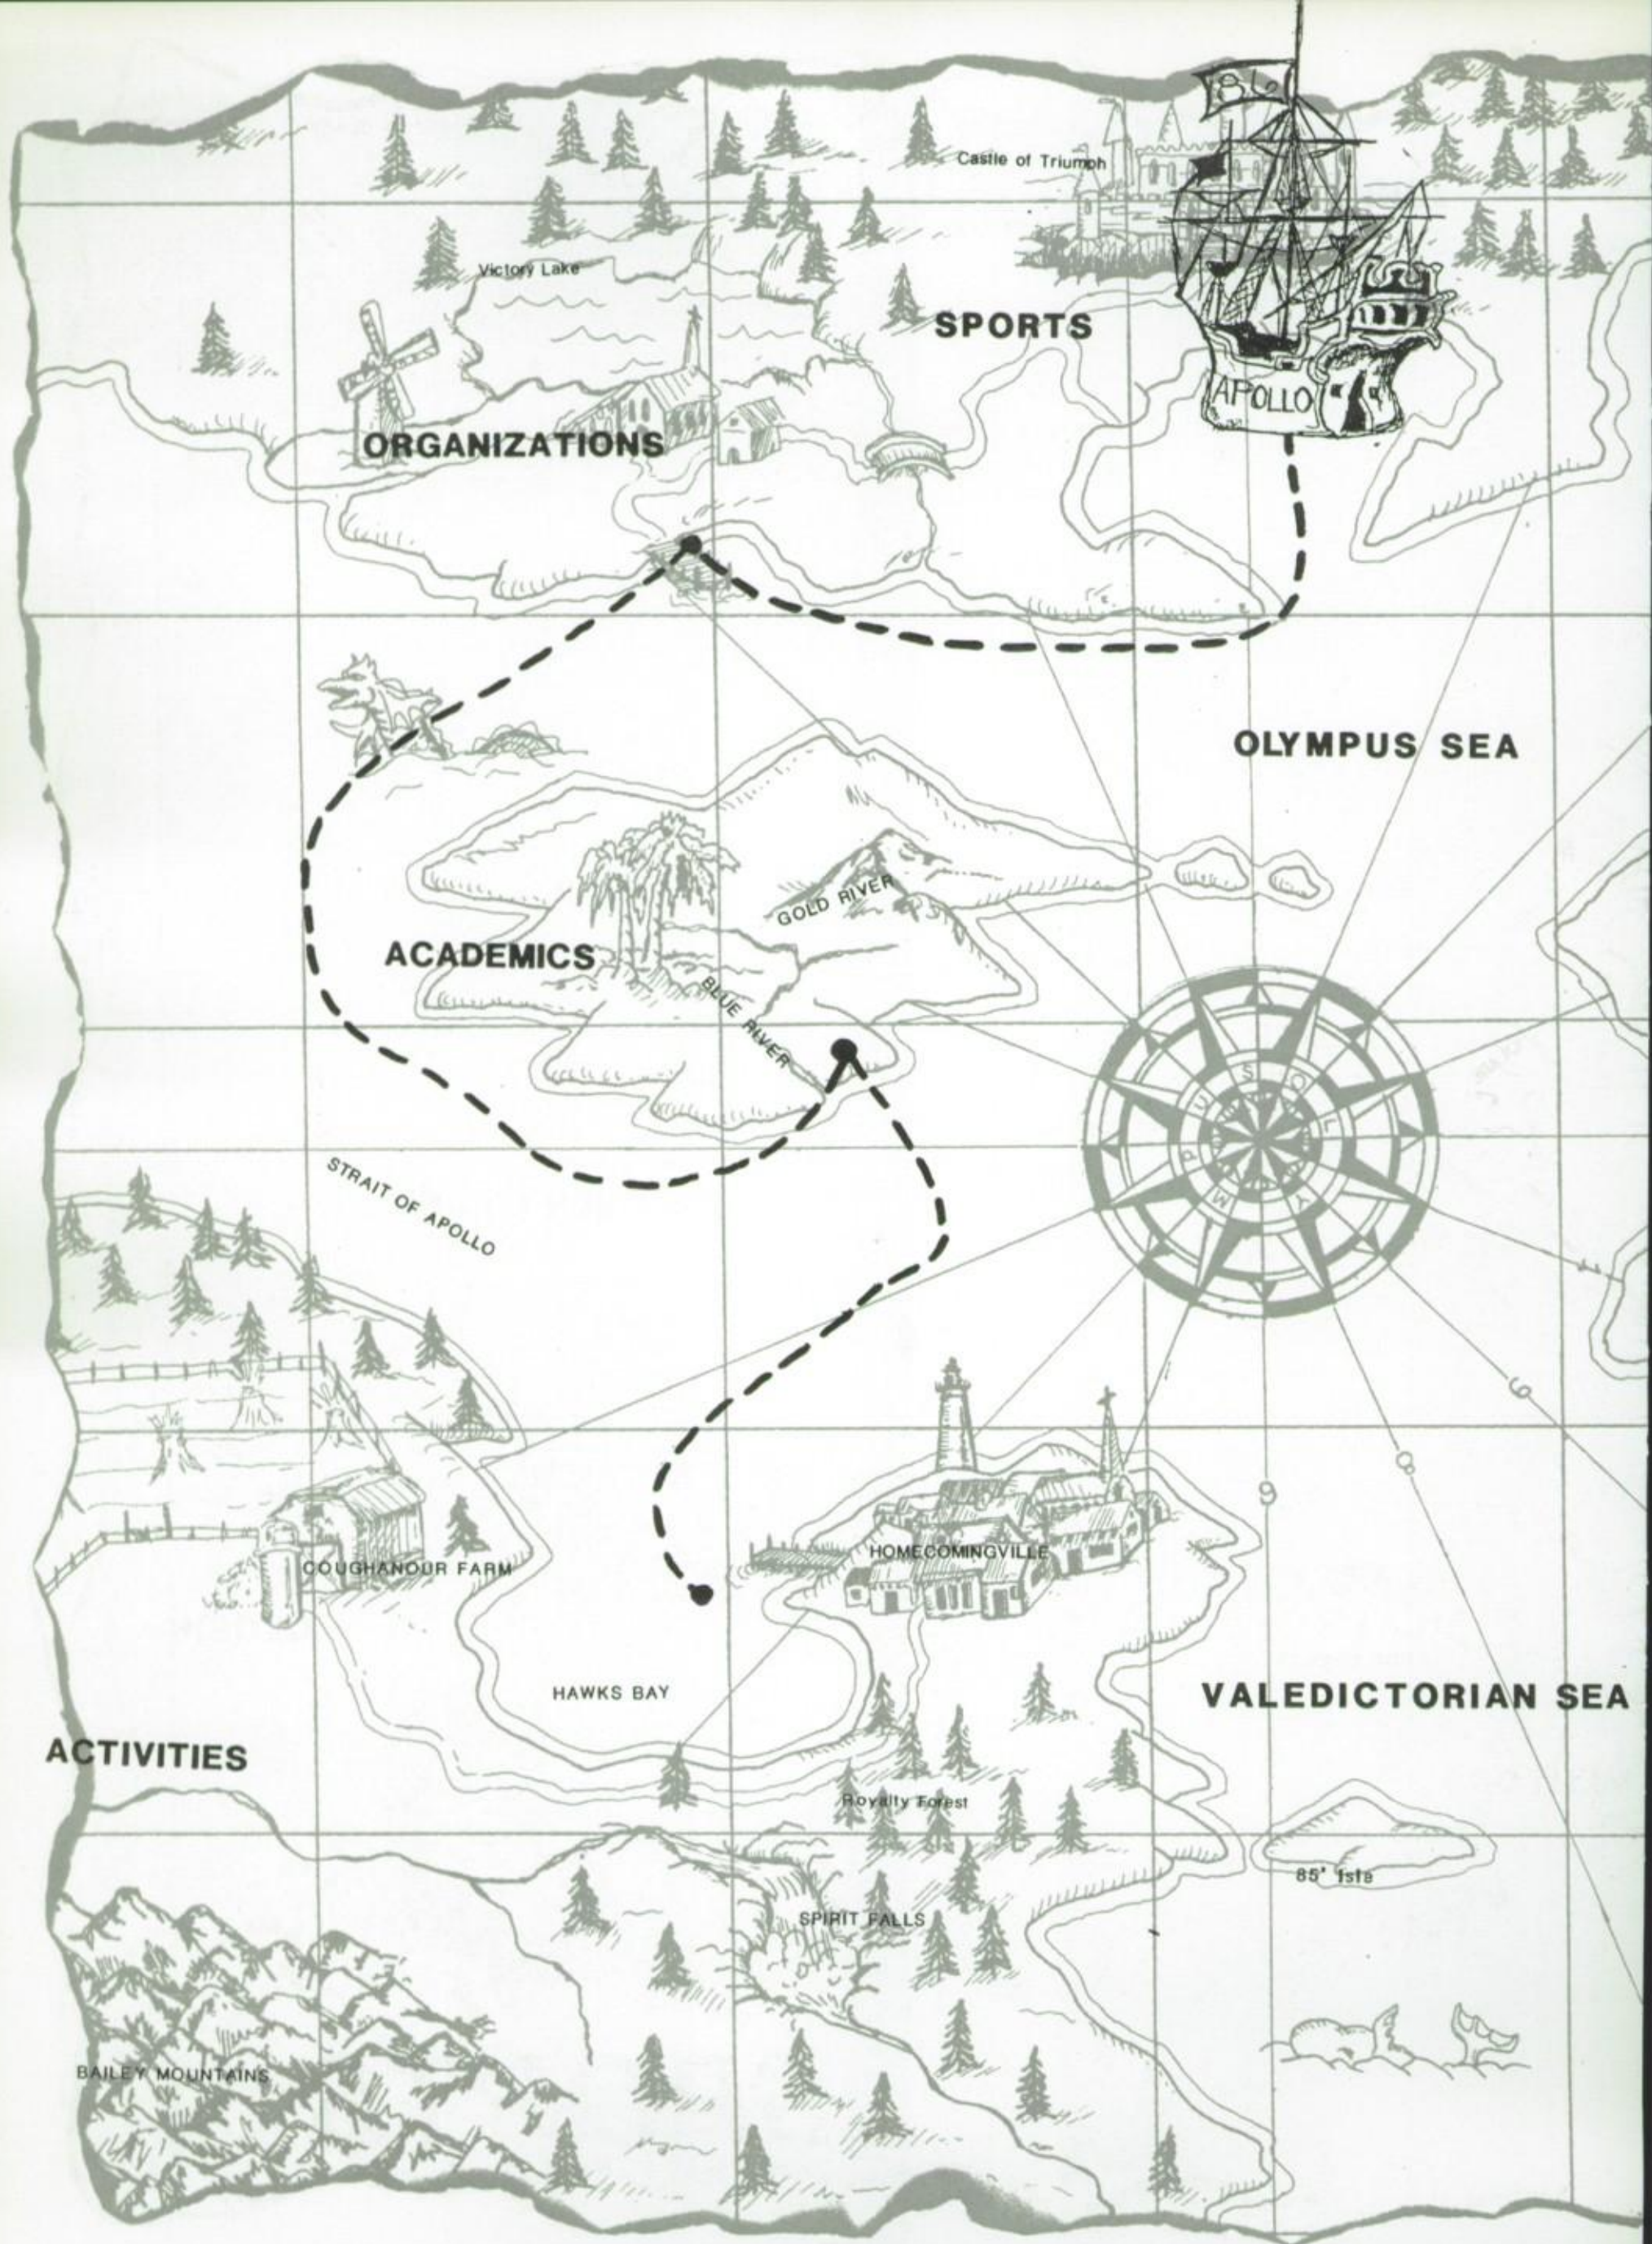

Clubs Discuss Activities in Meetings

The most important activity of any club is its meetings. Through these meetings members discuss upcoming events, fund raisers and community projects. Students also have a chance to talk to people with the same interests and ideas and gain valuable leadership experience. On the opposite page, the Spanish Delicious club (top) plans its annual trip to Mexico, while members of the Booster Club (bottom) discuss the theme and entertainment for their annual dinner. Seth Sulka and Heidi Ridinger (left) open a Key Club meeting by ringing a bell. FCA members (below) sing a song and wave their flags.

Oh, So Close

It was an unimpressive 5-5 season record which brought the Hawk football team to a playoff berth in the 1985 AAA state football championship series, but it was a most impressive team which surprised many with triumphs over Thunderbird, Alhambra and even the ever-tough McClintock Chargers before taking on the St. Mary's Knights in the title game. People said it was impossible but, like Hawks, the players soared beyond this statement and all obstacles standing in their way. They worked hard and long and were determined to be the best, the best in the state. Called "The Cinderella Team," led by Coach Rudy Pacheco later named coach of the year, the Apollo Hawks faced the St. Mary's Knights at Sun Devil Stadium. It was a cold night but that did not bother the Hawk players as they scored the first touchdown and continued to play the best they could. And, for the lack of two expensive penalties which set up a Knight touchdown, the Hawks would have come out on top. The rest, though was history. Congratulations on a game well played! Our congratulations go out to Mark Lopez, Jim Drape and Garry Pay who made All Conference and First Team All State and to Tom Collins who made All Conference and Second Team All State. Immediately below, Knight progress is halted by the Hawks, and later Conrad Swanson breaks loose for a touchdown.

Three JV Shut-outs Shine, And Freshmen Honor Players

Three shut-outs highlighted the junior varsity football season as the Hawks passed Alhambra (7-0), Horizon (19-0), and Moon Valley (14-0), but these three wins were to be the only ones chalked up as the team experienced difficulties with Deer Valley (27-21), Shadow Mountain (9-6), Brophy, St. Mary's and Thunderbird (no scores available). The freshman team had an even more rocky season, losing all its games to Deer Valley, Alhambra, Horizon, Moon Valley, St. Mary's, Thunderbird, Shadow Mountain and Greenway. Joe Mendell was named most valuable player and most valuable offensive player for the freshman squad, sharing the linelight with most valuable defensive player Jon Gonzales, most spirited player Dan Rodriguez and most improved player Jim McCagno.

We're from Apollo and we're tough,
 We're gonna show you all our stuff.
 We've got a team that's lots of fun
 That's why Apollo is number one.
 We've got a team backed by pride,
 Apollo has got the winning stride.
 We're the team of blue and gold,
 Apollo's team is strong and bold.
 We've got class and dignity,
 Apollo Hawks are flying free.
 We'll work and work until we're great,
 'Cause Apollo Cross Country is going to state!

Volleyball Team Spikes

It was a dominating Apollo volleyball team that set, bumped, and spiked its way to an outstanding 20-3 season that culminated with the capture of the State AAA Championship. Returning from a 12-8 1984 season, the girls brought well-developed skills and good experience to this year's team. Those skills and that experience, refined throughout three and four years of playing at the high school level, certainly paid off for them.

Seniors Beth Anderson and Vy Dam and junior Jennifer Schumann were awarded First Team, All State honors. Anderson and Dam also earned First Team, All Divisional ratings. Seniors Cari Turner and Debbie Cole received Honorable Mention, All Divisional. Rosie Stallman, the team's head coach, was named Volleyball Coach of the Year for the AAA Skyline Division. The team had a tremendous year, holding 11 of its opponents winless in match play against the Hawks. The only two schools to defeat Apollo were Xavier and Moon Valley. The MV Rockets defeated the Hawks twice (2-1, 2-0) during the regular season, but when it really counted, the girls flew to the forefront and soundly defeated the Rockets 2-0 in the first round of the Divisional Tournament. Apollo split season matches with Xavier, losing the first one 2-1 but winning the second 2-0. The team will graduate five seniors this year, but five juniors are expected to return to competition next year.

Its Way To State Title

Frosh Develop Skills, Display School Pride

Despite having to forfeit all its matches because of an ineligible player, the freshman team gained the knowledge and basic skills to help keep Apollo's program strong in the future, Coach Debbie Thompson said. She noted that many individual and team goals were accomplished, that the girls played hard and showed pride for their school and themselves. Dana Wolfe (right) takes a breather after a hard match.

Sherri Westover (#18, middle left) spikes that ball as Angela Conner (at right) and Dana Bigwarfe watch. Holly Finch (center, at right) and Conner make a play for the ball. Later on, Conner (middle right) and Finch (lower left) bump the ball during play.

Experience Pays for JV

Coached by Rosie Stallman and Kathy Wilson, the junior varsity Hawk volleyball team refined many of its skills during the first half of the season, skills that were used to earn an even season mark for the last ten matches of the season. After winning against only Greenway during the season's first six contests, the girls won 5 of the last 10. The team picked up additional wins against Thunderbird (twice), St Mary's, Moon Valley and Greenway again. Losses in the season were to St. Mary's, Moon Valley, Xavier (twice), Shadow Mountain (twice),

Golf Team Teed Off

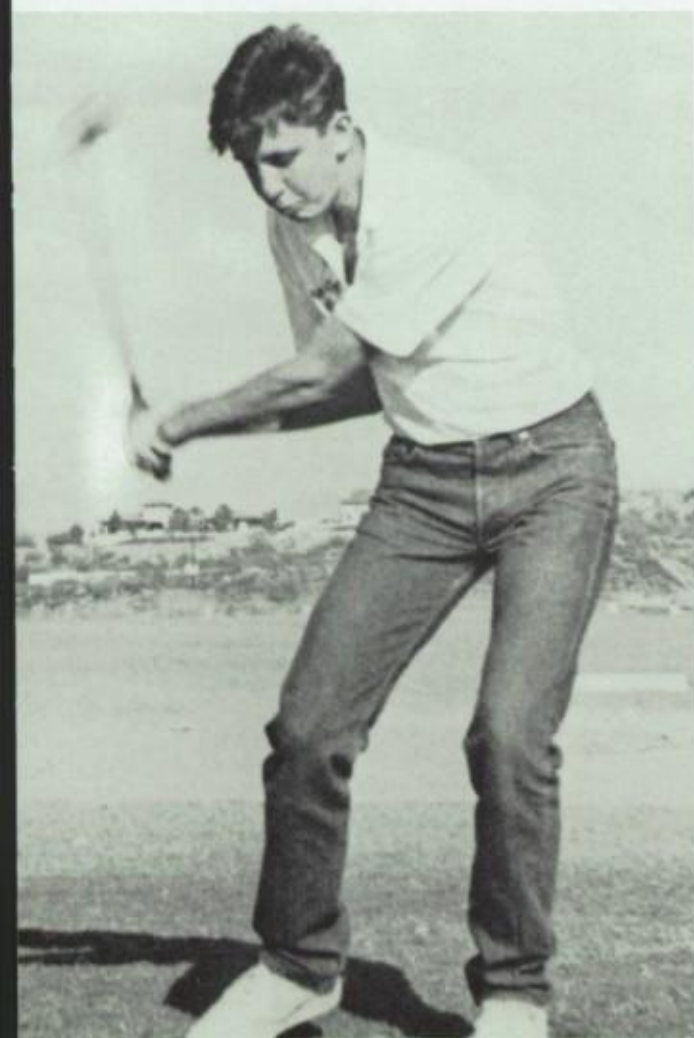

The players on the Apollo golf team performed consistently throughout the entire season and although there were no individual standouts, the players remained very close in their abilities to score. The golf team had a good year with nine wins, 13 losses and two tied meets. Seth Sulka and Bob Ernyei both captured medalist honors.

Swimmers Show Potential

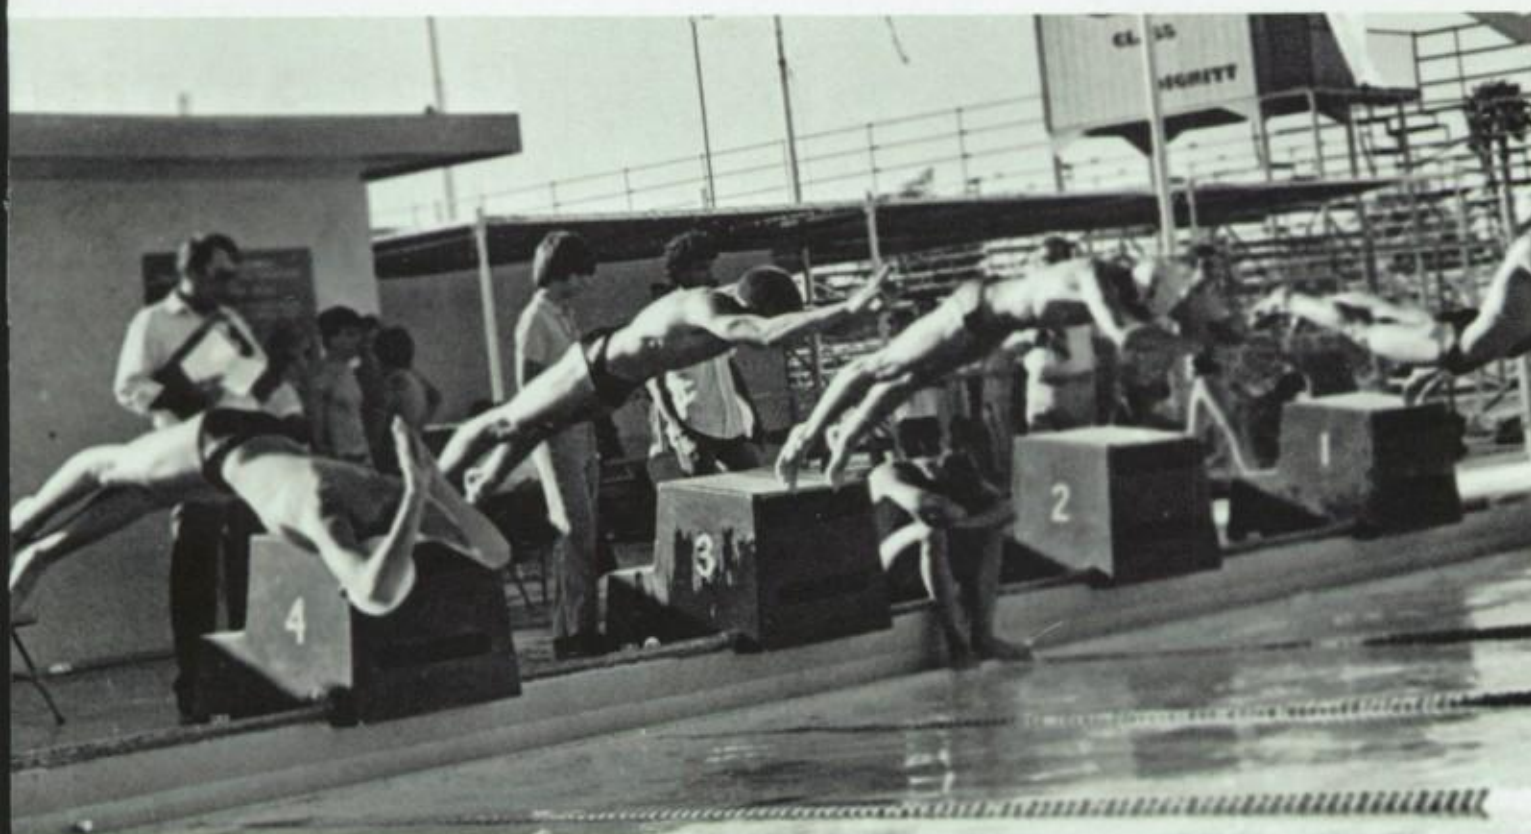

The Apollo boys' swimming team completed its season with a 3-7 mark. The young team was composed mainly of sophomores and juniors who should give the team potential for an improved season next year. Outstanding swimmers for the Hawks included senior Tim Wingersky who was a divisional qualifier in the 50-yard freestyle and junior Scott Brower who qualified in the 100-yard breast stroke. The freestyle team also qualified and included Wingersky, Brower, Brian Seaman and Vince Ciulla.

Hawks Get Their Feathers Wet

Apollo's girls' swimming team finished with a 6-8 record. The balanced team of 12 included three seniors, five juniors, four sophomores and four freshmen. The team was led by junior Melissa Trueblood who was the divisional and state champion in the 100- and 200-yard freestyle. The team was coached by Gayle Gessner.

Cheer Raises Spirit

The Varsity football spiritline received many awards this year. Some of the awards were as follows: the award of excellence for being the best all around squad, the sweepstakes award for receiving the best ratings on dances and routines, they competed in the fiesta bowl parade receiving 1st place in cheer and 2nd place in pom. The squad also earned a superior rating on their home routine "The Bird" Noel Nixon (top left) shows her school spirit while doing a cheer. Varsity football spiritline members (top right, top row, l-r) Natalie Wandrey, Mary Rael, Theresa Williams, Sonja Walworth (bottom row l-r) Claudine O'Dell, Theresa Toole, Lori Logan, Debie Smolinski perform at halftime. The junior varsity football spiritline (bottom) make a pyramid at an assembly.

New Spiritline Is Organized

The Basketball Spiritline, as an organization separate from that active during football season, came into existence this year as a result of the extensive time commitment given by the girls in the previous years who served both winter and fall sports. The decision to use two groups instead of one has proved itself a good one. These girls were responsible for promoting spirit and attendance at athletic events during the winter season. Flashing a smile, members of the group, (upper right, l-r) Anne Marino, Kelly Liniger, Heidi Frank and Nancy Torres happily relax after a Hawk victory while Susan Nielsen (above) appears to be in a dream world. Marino and Melissa Langevin (middle right) don "Bermuda" shorts and perform a routine reminiscent of the 1950's. Members of the varsity squad were (at right, back row, l-r) Marino, Frank, Tammy Hutchinson, (middle row, l-r) Liniger, Torres, Langevin, and (in the splitz) GinaLisa Tarango.

Injuries Plague Hawks Throughout Season

In the varsity season, the Hawks suffered major injuries and were plagued with minor ones. However, they used gained experience to defeat Xavier 18-9 and Deer Valley 11-10 and to hold highly rated Greenway 3-0 until the fifth inning. The Hawks lost 5-3 but played well and continued to improve. Sophomore centerfielder Jenni Chester was named to the 2nd All Division team and as the team's most valuable player. Junior catcher Michelle Bigwarfe and freshman shortstop Kim Stone received honorable mention tabs for the division. Stone was also named the team's most improved player. With the youth of the team picking up the awards, it looks good for the 86-87 season.

JV Team Has Fine Season; Frosh Gain Experience

The freshmen team played well under the direction of Maggie Rodriguez. The young Hawks lost many games by one or two runs. Learning the basics was the goal as they steadily improved. Late in the season despite major injuries, the Hawks made some outstanding plays. The season's scores were not available from Coach Rodriguez. Below, Kristin Sanders (left) winds up for her pitch while catcher Laura Black (left) awaits the ball.

The junior varsity's goal was to improve by practicing the skill of giving 100% to every task at hand. This worked well for the players as the team posted a fine 8-6-1 record which included drubbings of St. Mary's (18-2 and 12-3), Thunderbird (18-2 and 20-8) and Deer Valley (17-10) and a 7-5 victory over previously undefeated Moon Valley. Other wins were over Xavier (8-5) and Deer Valley (12-10). The Hawks tied Shadow Mountain 2-2 but lost to Moon Valley (5-1), Horizon (18-6 and 19-9), Greenway (15-3 and 5-19) and Shadow Mountain (18-8). Coach Pam Gaston explains that discipline, dedication and desire were responsible for the girls' support and encouragement of each other which led to the good season.

The Hawks' soccer team had its best year ever, with eight wins and only three losses to its credit. The Hawks tied Greenway and Moon Valley in two overtime contests, but lost a second overtime battle to Moon Valley which kept Apollo from being a contender in the state playoffs. Apollo's soccer team has really come a long way and keeps getting better.

Roundball Five Makes Playoffs

Apollo's basketball team had much—a new rule: coaches could not stand during play; rebounding and unbelievable plays: Randy Maville; muscle: Bruise Brothers Jim Drape and Garry Pay; injuries: Seth Sulka, Todd Heinle, Matt Rankin and Tom Marki (at least one player was out for each game); height: 6-7 Chuck Galbraith; outstanding improvement: Jim Anstett and Dan Sengstock; a scrappy guard: Rob Prazak; enough wins: the playoffs; exciting games: holding Brophy. It had much but fell short of even.

JV Hawks Dribble To 12 Big Wins

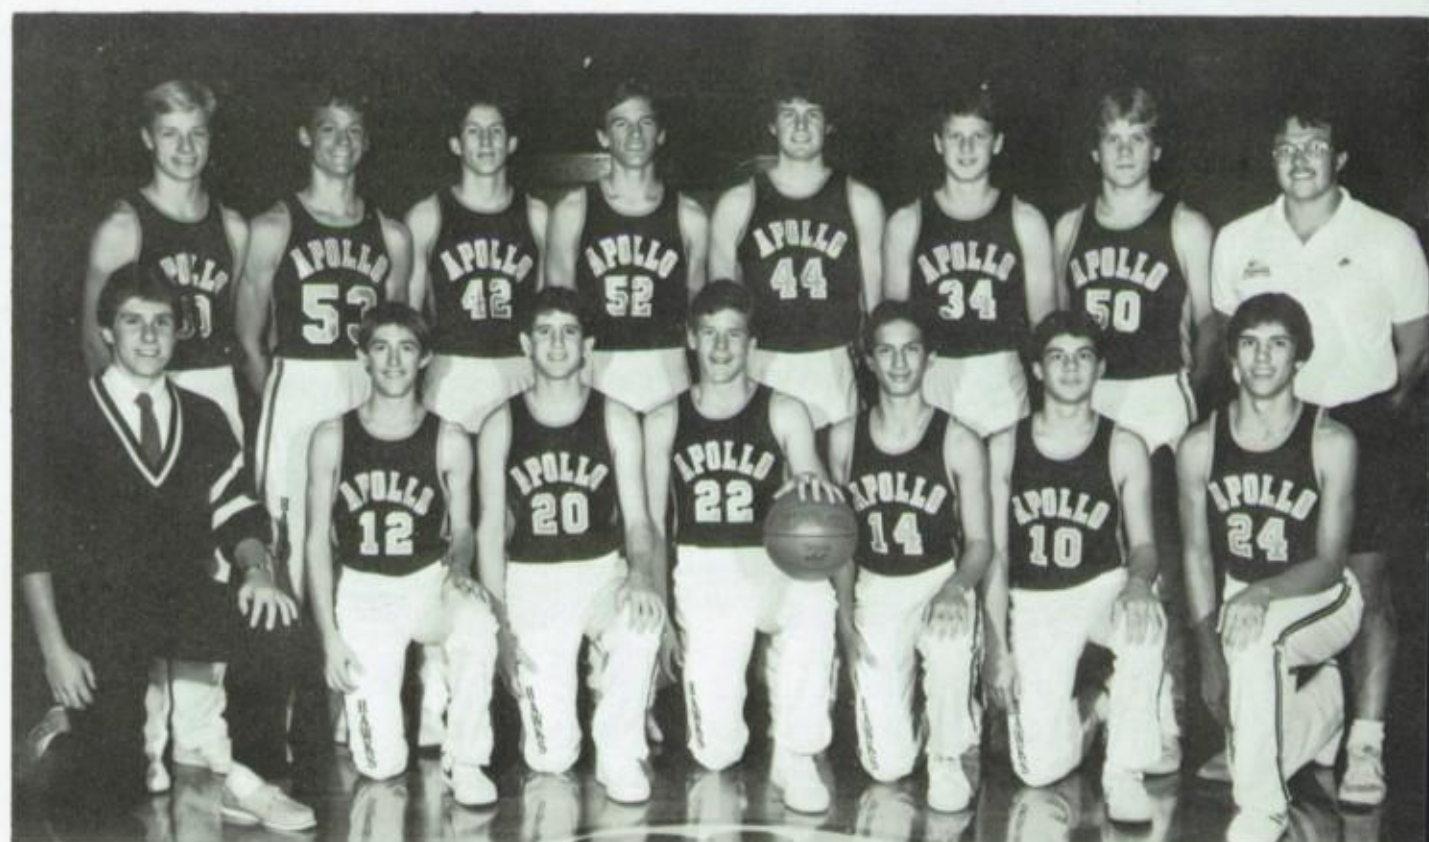

The junior varsity team was the pride of this year's basketball season. The team posted a fine 12-7 mark with six of those losses being by only five points or less. In fact, the team's last four defeats were by only a total of 7 points. In picking up wins, the team defeated always-tough Brophy twice, had its biggest margin of victory, 28 points, against Greenway, and downed Horizon twice and St. Mary's by ten or more points. They will certainly bring good experience and a winning attitude to the varsity next year. Pictured below, Chris Pisciotta (left) has his six-foot jump shot threatened by a Greenway player in the Hawk's 67-39 victory. Damin Lopez (middle) dribbles toward the hoop, and Randy Schmidt (right) is fouled as he works his power move against the Demons.

Frosh Debut in Competition

It was a long and frustrating season for this year's freshman squad which managed to pick up only four wins from a 16-game season. But, it was also one in which the players became acquainted with the world of high school athletics and learned basic skills which will carry them through their next three years at Apollo High. Those skills should come in handy next year as they prepare for rematches against six teams who edged them this year by only 10 points or less. Pictured in action, Steve Elam (left) shoots a layup in the 37-25 win against Greenway. Brian Turner (lower left) and David Sengstock (below) prepare for their jump shots.

Varsity Wrestlers Meet

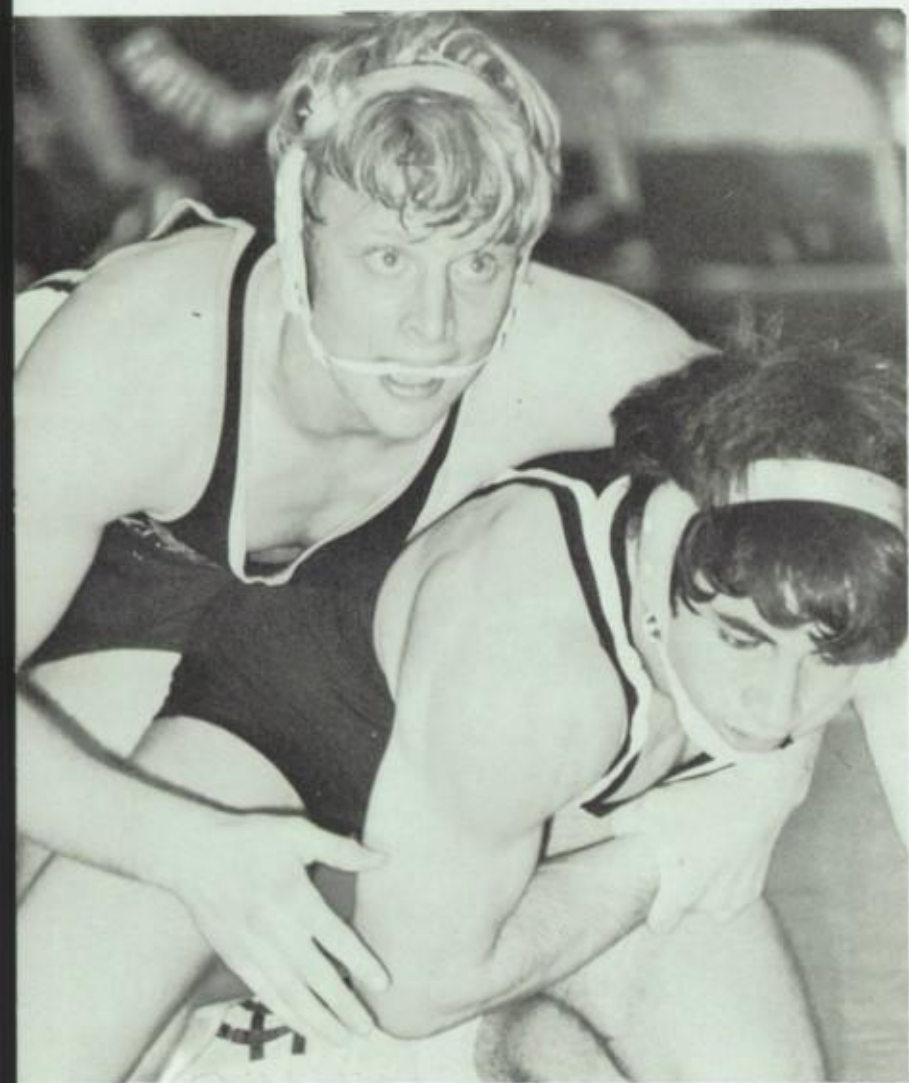

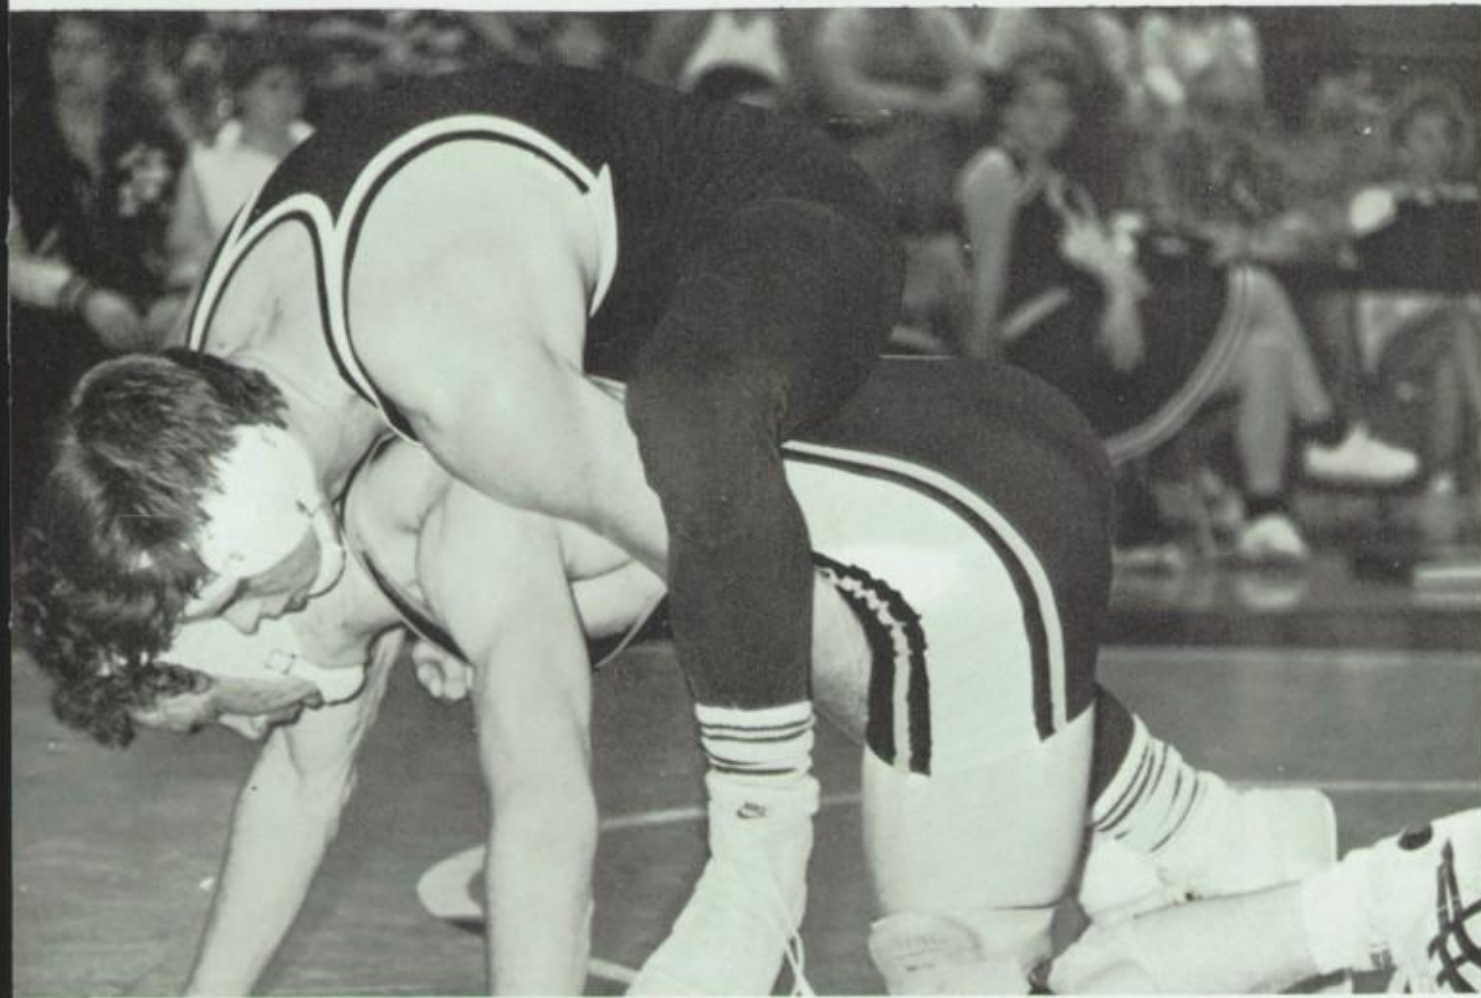

Posting a record of 5-7 in dual meets, the Hawks endured a rough season, but gained valuable experience which the younger members of the team, two freshmen, three sophomores and six juniors, will bring back with them next year. During the season, Apollo trounced Sunnyslope 60-18, Glendale 61-11 and Independence 45-20. Freshman Steve Decker shone for the Hawks, taking third place in state competition, second place in the Peoria Tournament, and first place in divisionals and the Apollo Christmas Tournament. Senior Dan Bryan placed first in divisionals and third in the Apollo tourney while teammate junior Darin Moran took second place in both. Junior David Hickey took fourth place in divisionals. Coach Skip Hudson (below) gives Dan Brian advice for his approaching match while Don Cunningham (right) gets in starting position to resume his contest on the mat. Members of the team included (top row, l-r) Mike Roach, Ray Gonzales, Bobby Ray, Don Cunningham, Corbin Jewel, Travis Williams and Mike Barcus, (middle row, l-r) Coach Gayle Tolifson, Ben Ernyei, Dan Brian, David Moon, Derrick Williams, David Hickey, (bottom row, l-r) Steve Decker, David Ruffulo, Tiger Young and Darren Moran.

The Challenge In 1986

Wrestlers Go For The Pin

Chuck Leister (top left) and David Mohamed (top right) try to pin their opponents. Members of the freshman wrestling include (back row, l-r) Ron Perry, Brian Porter, Bill Morgan, Todd Wells, Aaron Romero (middle row, l-r) John Gonzales, Tim Ray, Bryan Rengan, Scott Barber, Scott Hinderliter (bottom row, l-r) Mickey Nunez, David Mohamed, Roque Sotelo, Oscar Gutierrez.

The junior varsity wrestling team finished with a 3-7 record. The team consisted of juniors and sophmores to give the team valuable experience for next year. The team was victorious over Sunnyslope, Horizon and Greenway. Some of the members will be a great help for the varsity team next year. Scott Hinderliter (top) fights with his opponent.

Auxiliaries Provide Service

There are many people who help with athletic contests who never receive any of the glory of the win nor the criticism of the loss. However, many Apollo programs, among them basketball and wrestling, would suffer without the aid of student and adult helper-fans who put in many hours of work throughout the season. Jamie Arkin and Matminders Alma and Maria Montoya, and Shadow Mt. core keepers look on (page 132, top, from left) keep stats for a wrestling match. Daron Bethay (pg. 132, middle) announces the halftime activities while Richard Miranda (leaving the table), Jack Fiala (at right) and Spiritline sponsor Judy Usher (left) take a break from their scoring and spirit duties. Matminders this year were (page 132, bottom, back row, l-r) Kathryn Dana, Susan Noble, Kerry Hyatt, Tami Rudd, Wendy Hindman, Melissa MacKeever, Shelley Lahman, Spring Ames, Tricia Riveria, Donna Gardner, Gina Parra, Michelle Gardner, advisor Bob Grassi, (front row, l-r) Laura Pennington, Alma Montoya, Debbie Soto, Shannon Pantelaglow, Suzette NicholSEN, Sandy Benitez and Dina Aviles. Team photographer Art Coughanour (below, from left), scorekeeper Marc Ligon and his son, Kyle, check Apollo's scoreboard at halftime. Basketball Girls (below, at right) Deanne Pay (left) and Jennifer Schumann discuss the stats of the previous basketball game with head coach David Lopez. Statisticians (lower left) Jenny Penson (left) and Leah Caywood work from the stands. Jamie Arkin, Maria Montoya and the Shadow Mt. scorekeepers intensely watch a wrestling match while keeping score.

Girls' Basketball Dribbles Into Season

of their first game, a 67-54 win over Dobson, was an indication, the varsity girls' basketball team was to have a super season. Passing, a key skill, is displayed by Donna Bunch (page 134, upper left) and Amy Wixon (page 134, upper right). Practicing her shooting is Kim Bowman (page 134, lower left) who led the Hawks' offense against Dobson with 18 points, and rebounding (page 134, lower right) always rounds out a good team. Below, Cary Topar (left) goes for two against Joli Schexnayder, and Amy Wixon (right) practices her defense. Team members were (back row, l-r) Deanne Pay, Michelle Miller, Lynette Johnson, Jennifer Schumann, Joli Schexnayder, Debbie Cole, (front row, l-r) Donna Bunch, Kim Bowman, Deena Bunch, Cary Topar, Amy Wixon and Vy Dam. The coach was by David Lopez.

The girl's tennis team showed early signs of success with victories over Shadow Mountain and Thunderbird. With all six varsity spots filled with returning varsity players, the team was solid. At the Kiwanis' High School Tournament, Apollo placed fourth of 32 schools. Beth Anderson advanced to the quarter-finals, Chris Laguna and Christi Morba placed second in the gold doubles, and Suzzane Brokke and Heidi Ridinger placed third in the silver doubles. The seasonal, divisional, and state results were not available by press time.

A Touch of Memories

Some will smile,
Some will cry,
Some will tell that same sad lie;
I'll keep in touch I swear it true,
But few if any ever do.
Some shake hands,
A few embrace,
And tears may fall on more than one face.
Then with pain in every heart,
They force a smile as classmates part.
Then into the world each flies,
And tears no longer cloud their eyes.
Then each one goes his separate way,
And all but forget that fateful day.

Yet even after all have gone,
A few sweet memories linger on.
Fond memories,
And sad ones, too,
Of good old friends,
And the things we would do;
Of prom night,
Or the game we should have won,
And of all those things we shouldn't have done;
Of our old teachers,
Of each old friend,
Why did it ever have to end?
Forever gone are most of these,
But we'll always have our memories.

Apollo Spiritline (left) struts their stuff, displaying exactly how easy it is to defy gravity, or is it? Has running to your locker between classes got you down? Take a hint from Dan Fialkowsky (above). Living out of a bag works just great! You can even hide bagels in them. GinaLisa Tarango (at left, upper left) and Kim Nelson sport the latest trends in hair styling. Wild is wonderful!

Staci Chambers and Greg Zimmerman (right) are overwhelmed after being crowned Apollo's freshman attendants at Homecoming. Registration (middle right) for incoming freshmen can be a very confusing process as illustrated on the faces of Jon Ruterman (left) and Craig Schwartz (right). Below (from left) Steve Elam, Danny Sampson and Lisa Gilbert review the results of their test scores in their English 1-2 class.

Academics is a big part of high school life, and these freshmen (right) in Bill Erlenmeyer's Introduction to Science class seem to have learned that studying and completing every assignment is the right thing to do. The sophomore banner in the background provides good incentives for these younger Apollo brothers and sisters.

ADMINISTRATION...

Apollo's administrators are very much appreciated for all their contributions to Apollo High School. They are dedicated to fulfilling the needs and desires of the students as well as those of the teachers. George Sisemore, principal, has been involved in education for 24 years. Twelve of those years have been in the Glendale Union High School District. He served as dean at Apollo before transferring to Moon Valley High school where he was assistant principal before returning to lead Apollo. He is charge of the overall operation of the school. Sid Bailey, former dean of students at Apollo, was promoted to assistant principal in charge of student activities this year. He has been a Hawk for six years. He is responsible for the smooth operation of Apollo's athletic and club activities as well as the activities of several classes which act as clubs. Wendy Blair, former women's physical education teacher, was promoted to dean this year. She has been with Apollo for fourteen years. Her duties include student attendance and behavior. Bob Thrasher, new to Apollo this year, is the assistant principal in charge of student services. He transferred to Apollo from Thunderbird High School. He is responsible for academic scheduling, counseling and testing.

BACKBONE OF APOLLO

Apollo Counselors

Counselors are a great necessity at this school. Their job is to make sure each student is taking the required classes and receiving enough credits in order to graduate. Counselors help some seniors choose what college or university would fit the student's personal needs. They also help make students aware of ACT, SAT, PACT, and PACT dates so that those students can take the test in time to be accepted at a desired college. Apollo's counselors are Dennis Woodard (upper right), Rudy Burrola (below), Marge Crow (right), Marilyn Farris (lower left) and Shirley Mihas (lower right).

Office Staff - Heart of Apollo

Office personnel include (clockwise from upper left) Ida Sanchez who works in the library and the bookstore, Vicki Agin who operates the Xerox machine, nurse Marge Ebersold, Sandy Acquista who works in the attendance office, Donna Sutton who takes care of students' records and counseling secretary Erma Kral.

Though We Go Our Separate Ways

And so this storybook comes to a close. The year is closing, the ribbons and bows of graduation will soon be but fragments among the memories of our high school years, and we'll be going our separate ways. We cherish these memories both the good and bad, and with pride acknowledge the fact that we are Hawks and will always be a part of the Apollo family. For even though we go our separate ways, together we are one.

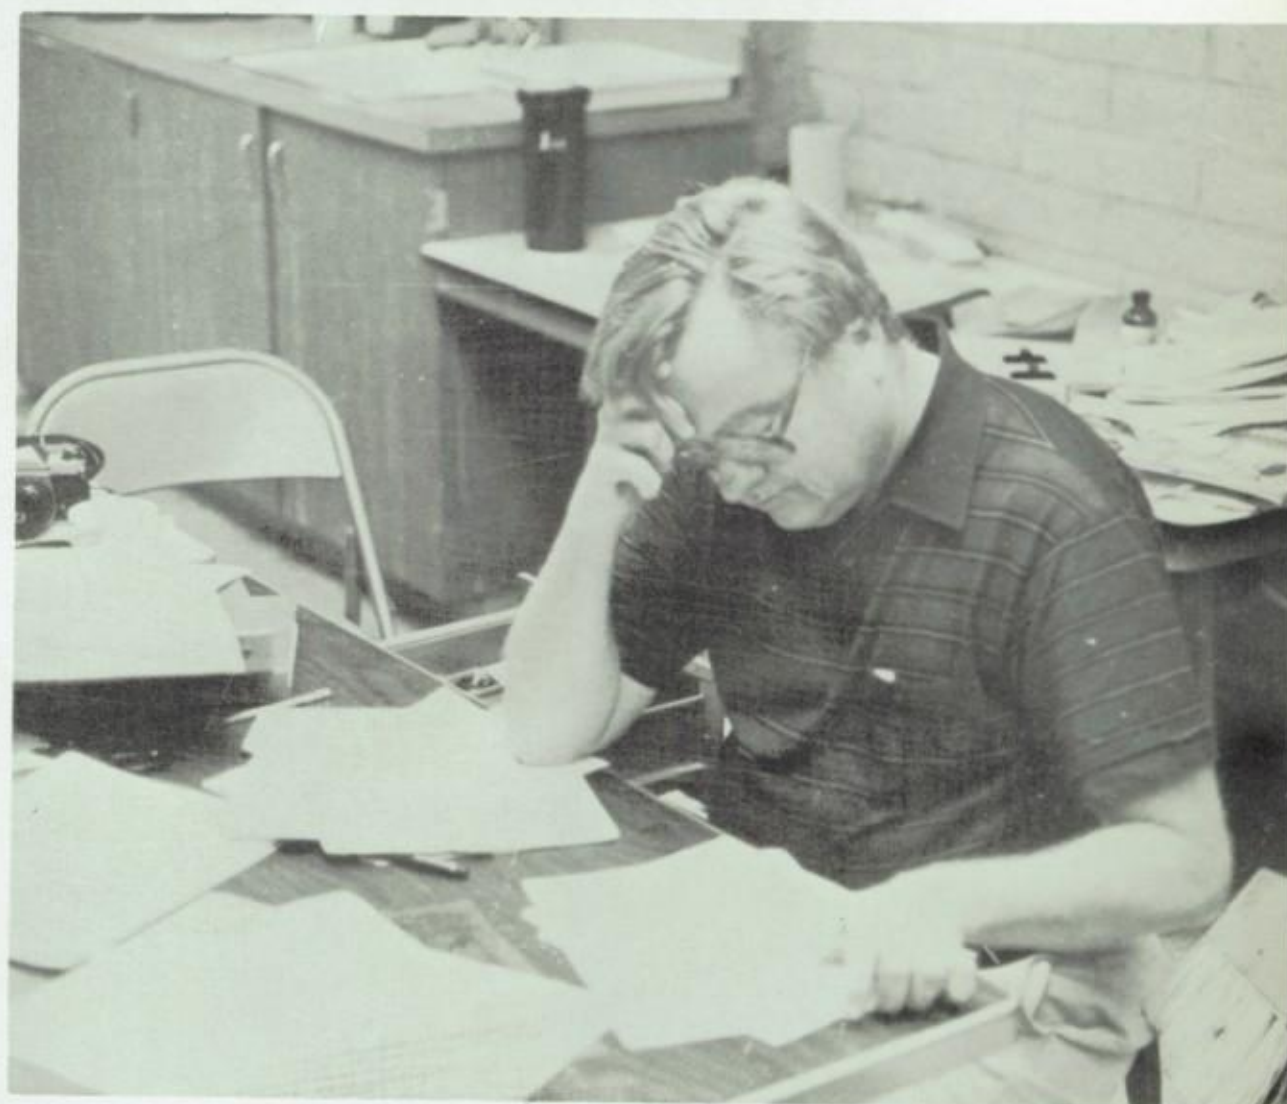

"Well, in my opinion it's time to go home!" Donna Putnam (below) has caught spring fever while Chuck Galbraith (right) prepares to ride home after a KEY Club meeting. David Wunderlich (bottom) prepares to dump Tammy McClendon into a garbage can.

It's Time To Go Home!

A Tribute To My Students

With the publication of the 1985-86 Apollo Olympus, 25 Apollo High School students have placed themselves in the circle of distinction. This is the first annual in Arizona and one of only a few in the nation for which a high school staff has set all the copy and completed all the paste-up excluding that of screened photographs. The book has been printed by Taylor Publishing Company under a collegiate contract, and the students who participated in its composition completed work which has normally been reserved for college students. They have completed about three times as much work as any other high school annual staff without any appreciable difference in deadline scheduling.

This was not an easy task, nor was it one which evolved overnight. The idea of purchasing a word processor and headline lettering machine was proposed during the 1983-84 school year as a way of saving money within the journalism program at Apollo High School. A great deal of the cost in publishing annuals, newspapers, literary magazines and other student publications is tied up in the setting of body copy and headlines. It was estimated that the equipment would pay for itself within two years. Even with the projected savings, enough money was not available for the purchase of the machinery. Apollo journalism students over the past three years have raised the money through various on-campus sales and by penny-pinching their way through their publications. A year ago the word processor was purchased, and this past fall the headliner was added to the equipment. This, in itself, was no small achievement. Cost of the equipment was close to $10,000. It has cut the cost of the annual by close to $5000, the cost of the newspaper by about $2000, and the cost of the literary magazine by about $700 in this first year of operation.

But, the project has been far more than a money-saver for the students who have worked on these publications. Far greater than the amount of money saved is the educational value gained by these students in operating a word processor and in pasting-up a publication. These are skills which they will use in most any field they enter upon graduating from high school. A Taylor Publishing Company official has called the work of these students "professional," and several of them are qualified now to join the work force in a printing shop as the first step in a career field or as a job to help pay the expenses of attending college. But, most do not plan a career in journalism. They plan to put their skills to work in architecture, law, business, teaching, computer science and a whole host of other occupations. Many, no doubt, will use their skills in everyday life in the printing of scouting and church bulletins. Many will use their skills in college as they design the reports required by their professors. They have a good edge on their peers.

The amount of work required of them during seven months of this school year was at many times unbelievable, tedious and exacting. The students not only wrote their copy and proofread it, but set it on the word processor to fit their varying space allocations and then pasted-up their finished copy. Errors noticed after the paste-up was complete required them to redo the copy, not to just note what corrections should be made. The copy and its accompanying headlines had to be pasted-up as straight as possible because the publishing company would be photographing the pages as sent to use in the printing process. The hours of time and the precision required in pasting-up the individual names in the senior and faculty sections was beyond their belief. Although they did not have to paste-up the photographs which they took, they had to cut the shapes of those photographs from a special construction-like paper. The shapes, too, had to be straight and cover the same space the photograph would cover. Many of them learned the true meaning of the word "perfect."

As with any large project there are those to thank. The project would not have even made it past the blue-print stage had it not been for the active support of George Sisemore, Apollo's principal; Vern Jacobs, former Apollo assistant principal; Kathy Vogt, GUHSD vocational coordinator; and Lynda Geames, Apollo teacher and advisor of the literary magazine. Apollo computer teachers John Barber and Cheryl Dingman were invaluable as students tried to learn how to tell the word processor what to do. Numerous faculty members, notably Jean Barnhill, John Fish and Karen Mounes, supplied continual moral support which helped the staff through many difficult time periods. And, of course, there are the families and special friends of the staff members who gave up their time with these students and who gave moral and active support of the project. Two such sets of parents were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wunderlich and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Benney who have recently been named charter members of Olympus Moms and Dads, a group of very special parents who truly care and participate in their sons' and daughters' educations. These parents became the adopted parents of many staff members as they helped to cut and paste "black squares" and set names and page numbers for the index.

The index was the only area in which that staff did not succeed. It was written and typed into the word processor. It was to be printed on the next seven pages. However, it "crashed" in the computer and there was no more time to redo it if the staff was to make its deadline.

As a personal note, I would like to thank my family and colleagues for their support this year in helping us to achieve something very special. I would also like to thank my students for their work, and I would especially like to thank and commend the three student leaders without whom I'm not sure the rest of us would have made it: Cheryl Benney, Chuck Galbraith and David Wunderlich.
